WALL STREET STOCK PRICES OFF AT CLOSE; DAY'S TRADE IS LISTLESS

Losses in More Important Shares Are Negligible — Business Follows an Uncertain Course Throughout Day

LITTLE DEMAND FROM THE PUBLIC

Weakness of Wheat Helps to Unsettle Securities — Dividend Cuts Make Up Bulk of Day's News — Brokers' Loans Increase.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Speculation was active when bullishness was active when bearish in today's stock market, which was a listless and negative affair, at its best.

Prices fluctuated uncertainly throughout the day. A rather heavy opening was followed by a sharp short-lived turn, which was a prolonged gasp lasting until midday. After midday, the market worked higher for a time, but trading interest on the whole was scant, and transactions were close to a standstill. A little change of bearishness in the afternoon led to a rally of a point or two from the lowest occurred in the day.

Trading Dull Most of Day. In the main, the list closed lower, but losses in most of the important shares were almost negligible. The day's total transactions barely extended 15,000 shares. Between 12 and 2:10 p. m., only 77,500 shares were traded, but from 2:10 to 3 o'clock, more than 430,000 shares were transferred.

Worthington after falling 5, closed off 2. American Telephone closed 2, but rallied to close off 1 1/2. Shares losing about 1 1/2 included U. S. Steel, National Lead, General Motors and Radio City. Cereals dropped 3. The lowest in six years, American Petroleum "B" and New York Central gained a point and Radio City a fraction at the finish.

Real estate developments, with the lack of public buying in the market and many felt that further advances would require some decidedly pleasing business news. With dividend reductions comprising the bulk of the day's developments, offers to attract a speculative following have been greatly hampered, despite the fact that economic history shows that dividend cuts usually reflect water unit for the mill, and are most numerous as a rule at the end of a business recession.

Pressure against the Federal Reserve Board helped to unsettle the market. Week futures lost about 1/2 cent, reaching new lows in the movement. September wheat sold as low as 81 cents a bushel. Cotton was about steady, September closing 1/2 of a cent, but March lost 1/2. Cotton sold about 1 1/2 a bale on storm reports, but lost most of its advance.

Brokers' Loans Increase. Loans to brokers and dealers were up for the week ending Sept. 2, as announced by the Federal Reserve Board today as a result of an increase in the amount of borrowing as compared with the preceding week. The amount of the report shows that for each category increased, while loans for accommodation of town banks decreased $25,000 and loans for discount of commercial bills $14,000.

Signs of Trade Stability. The day's industrial news was mixed in interpretation according to the various reports. The mercantile order book was a wholesale price index announced for August, however, a few mill and chain store heads reported slight improvement. Electrical power consumption as reported for the latest week, however, failed to continue the slow climb of previous weeks, although it was less than 1 per cent under the previous week, and 5 per cent below the like week of two years ago.

Closing stock prices will be found on pages 9, 10 and 11C.

FRENCH AVIATORS ON WAY TO DALLAS SIGHTED PASSING LITTLE ROCK

Capt. Coste and Bellonte Depart From New York in Question Mark at 5:55 A. M. Seeking to Win $25,000 Prize.

EXPECT TO ARRIVE IN 12 OR 15 HOURS

Map Route by Way of Easton, Allentown, Pittsburgh, Steubenville, Cincinnati, Louisville, Little Rock and Greenville, Tex.

By the Associated Press. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 4.—Two airplanes, one thought to be the "Question Mark" carrying the trans-Atlantic flyers Coste and Bellonte, and the other that of Coste's manager, Rene Racover, on the way from New York to Dallas, Tex., passed over Little Rock at 2:55 p. m., flying at altitude of about 3000 feet, and heading southwest.

CURTIS FIELD, Valley Stream, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Capt. Dieudonne Coste and his co-pilot and mechanic, Maurice Bellonte took off at 5:55 this morning (5:55 a. m. St. Louis time) for Dallas, Tex., to collect a $25,000 prize offered by Col. William Easterwood Jr. The big red sesqui-plane "Question Mark" which made the first westward crossing of the North Atlantic from Paris to New York circled once over the field then turned southwest.

Nine minutes before the Question Mark took the air, another ship hopped off with Rene Racover, Coste's American representative, who will attend to the trans-Atlantic flyers' business affairs in connection with collecting the Easterwood prize which was offered for the first flight from Paris to Dallas, with New York as the only intermediary stop.

Takeoff Delayed an Hour. Knapp delayed the French flyers was delayed an hour by the necessity of constructing a special device for spinning the propeller, which is set so high that it is very difficult for mechanics standing on the ground to start the engine. The device failed, but the motor was at last started by volunteers who risked their lives by leaping into the air to hang onto the high propeller blades.

Mayflower Descendants ON BOAT AGROUND OFF PLYMOUTH Steamer on Mud Flat in Historic Massachusetts Port Transfers Passengers.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Sept. 4.—Four hundred passengers were marooned on the steamship Plymouth of the Nantasket Steamship Co. today when the vessel grounded on a mud flat in the harbor here. An ebbing tide forestalled any immediate attempt to get the passengers off or to free the ship. Some of the stranded passengers were said to be members of the Society of Mayflower Descendants who have been in convention here. After several unsuccessful attempts, the passengers aboard the stranded vessel were finally transferred to a nearby wharf, for transportation to Boston.

He declared he often had urged his wife to return to him and share that amount, but that she refused.

SENATOR HAWES WILL NOT RUN FOR RE-ELECTION

Accepts Presidency of Nature Conservation Commission Planned by J. P. Knapp, Publisher.

TO RETAIN SEAT TILL TERM EXPIRES

Had Been Asked to Resign, but Declined—New Enterprise to Have $10,000,000 Endowment.

United States Senator Harry B. Hawes has made known in letters to several political and personal friends in Missouri that he will not seek re-election in 1932. His term expires in March, 1933.

He has accepted the salaried presidency of a nature conservation commission which is to be endowed to the extent of about $10,000,000, and which is being formed by Joseph P. Knapp of New York, multimillionaire magazine publisher.

Senator Hawes has informed his friends that he expects to make formal announcement of his acceptance of the position and of his decision not again to be a candidate at the Democratic State Convention in Jefferson City Tuesday. He is now in New York and is expected to arrive in St. Louis tomorrow or Saturday on his way to the convention.

Hawes, who has gained nationwide fame through his activities in Congress and outside of Congress on behalf of legislation to conserve the wild life of the country, attracted Knapp's attention, it is said, by his book, "My Friend, the Black Bear," which he published last spring.

Asked Hawes to Resign. Knapp desired that Hawes resign from the Senate and immediately take over the presidency of the commission during its formative period, but Hawes rejected the plan. It was finally agreed that while Hawes would become connected with the movement at an early date, he would retain his seat in the Senate until the expiration of his term, and would not draw salary from the commission until that time.

Hawes has been an active sportsman for many years, and in recent years has been particularly active in movements to preserve and increase the birds and game in the country. He was the author in the last session of Congress of a resolution creating a special State Conservation Committee, of which Senator Walcott of Connecticut is chairman, and of which Hawes is a member.

Several years ago Hawes, with a few friends purchased a Current River cottage near Doniphan, Mo., erected by the late Jephth D. Howe, and frequently entertains parties of friends there.

Head of Publishing House. Knapp, who instituted the endowment for the commission which is said, will be styled the "More Game Birds for America Commission," is chairman of the Executive Committee of the Crowell Publishing Co. and is chairman of the board of P. F. Collier & Sons, publishing houses which include the American Magazine, Collier's, the Woman's Home Companion and several other magazines.

While it is understood Hawes will not move his legal residence from St. Louis, it is expected that his new duties will require that he be in Washington the greater part of his time.

STREET CARS LOSE IN A YEAR'S TEST OF HIGHER FARE

Riders in St. Louis 9.1 Pct. Fewer, Revenue 1.8 Pct. Less Than in Previous 52 Weeks.

One full year of the experimental street car fare schedule in St. Louis has failed to fulfill the hope of the State Public Service Commission that it would check the decline in riding and increase the revenue of the company.

The Public Service Co.'s weekly report issued yesterday for the period ending Aug. 24 covered the fifty-second week of the experimental fares. As compared with the preceding year, when an 8-cent fare was in effect, the company suffered a loss of 9.1 per cent in number of revenue passengers, or fares collected, and 1.8 per cent in revenue. Previously the greatest loss in revenue passengers was in the calendar year 1929 when the decline from the preceding year was 5.4 per cent.

Business conditions leading to considerable unemployment undoubtedly contributed to decline in riding since the experimental fare became effective Aug. 26, 1929, but to what extent cannot be determined.

In the 52 weeks the company carried on its street cars and buses 224,728,445 revenue passengers with 247,226,098 in the preceding 52 weeks, a loss of 22,497,653. Its revenue was $19,094,455 compared with $19,452,811, a loss of $358,356.

Weekly Tickets Lose Popularity. It was the expectation of the Public Service Commission and the company that a large majority of riders, probably 75 to 80 per cent, would buy tickets to enjoy the lower fare, but this never was true. At the beginning of the period 39 per cent of riders paid the 10 cent cash fare and the steady increase of this proportion to 41 per cent indicated the trend of the public away from regular street car riding. This trend also was emphasized by the steady decrease in the number of weekly tickets sold. At one time it was as high as 175,000 a week, but in the last week of the period only 114,000 were sold.

Factors generally recognized as discouraging the purchase of weekly tickets despite the saving were the expenditure of $1 at one time, the annoyance of taking care of a ticket with the possibility it might be lost, and the possibility not all riders would be used.

Contributing to the least named factor is the general practice of automobile drivers of picking up friends and acquaintances on their way to and from work. This practice is so generally recognized as a menace to the revenues of street car companies that it has been widely discussed in the industry's trade papers.

Bus Traffic Grows. A feature of the weekly reports has been the consistent gain in the company's bus traffic and revenue despite the sharp drop in street car business. With the street cars showing weekly losses up to 17 per cent in revenue passengers the buses gained as much as 25 or 30 per cent in passengers carried and up to 45 per cent in revenue. This was partly due to the

WOMAN DRY IN ILLINOIS RACE FOR U. S. SENATE

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill to File Petitions Tomorrow as Independent.

By the Associated Press. DOWNERS GROVE, Ill., Sept. 4.—Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, first woman legislator in Illinois, today announced her entry into the United States Senatorial campaign, as an independent candidate opposing Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican, with whom she has had political differences in State affairs, and James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat. She is a Republican.

Mrs. O'Neill said her candidacy was in response to the protest of the organized dry element of Illinois against the attitude of the Republican State convention on the prohibition issue. Mrs. O'Neill will file her petitions at Springfield tomorrow.

The Republican convention at Springfield last month resolved that its attitude toward the liquor question would be guided by the result of a statewide prohibition referendum at the November election.

"The convention, Mrs. O'Neill said, "was dominated by the wet element of Cook County. The dry people of Illinois are satisfied with the declarations of the National Republican party on prohibition, but they are not satisfied with the declarations of the State convention. I am being run by a number of organizations who are disappointed with the Republican platform declarations."

Lunatic Asylum Destroyed and Inmates Who Escaped Death Run Wild Through Streets — Appeal to U. S. for Aid.

By the Associated Press. SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Sept. 4.—The city of Santo Domingo, most ancient settlement of the white man in the New World, was almost totally destroyed by a hurricane that swept over the eastern end of the island of Haiti yesterday. Three hundred or more persons were killed and 1000 were injured.

The hurricane struck Santo Domingo at 3 p. m. and blew for four hours. Houses in the aristocratic quarter were razed to their foundations. Dwellings of the poor disappeared on the wings of a wind estimated to be blowing around 150 miles an hour. Power facilities and the Osami River Bridge were twisted into wreckage.

Santo Domingo city faces a water famine, hampering its 40,000 or more inhabitants. Efforts are being made to bring in fresh water from island points by overland truck transport.

Scenes whose horror exceeded anything witnessed here in 20 years followed this hurricane. President Rafael Trujillo took personal charge of the relief work. The entire army was called out. Bridges, roads wrecked.

The communications systems of the republic were totally disrupted. No news came from the rest of the country, but in the neighborhood of the capital, bridges were wrecked and roads were rendered impassable. Telegraph lines disappeared.

The plant of the newspaper La Opinion, Associated Press member in Santo Domingo, was destroyed. Despite this members of its staff at the first available opportunity sent a story of the disaster to the New York offices.

A building adjoining La Opinion's plant crumbled before the wind. Three of its 15 occupants perished.

The lunatic asylum was destroyed and those inmates escaping death ran wild through the city streets, adding to the horror of the disorder and confusion everywhere. They were finally recaptured by soldiers and police.

Appeal to U. S. Officials and newspapers appealed for aid to the American press and to all charitable organizations in the United States. Hunger began to show its effects today. There have been many robberies.

Arctic-to-Tropic Expedition

SIX members of the "Eskimo Charley" Arctic-to-Tropic expedition, which is being made by canoe and dog sled. Left to right: Lucky; Inez, Charley's 9-year-old daughter; Tony, 7 years old, Inez's brother; Spot; Coffee, leader of the dogs, and Charley himself.

'Eskimo Charley' Arrives From Arctic in Canoe

With Him on Journey to Cuba Are His Two Children, Partner and Four Big Dogs.

"Eskimo Charley" Planinshak, born in Mexico but living north of the Arctic Circle for the last 20 years, arrived in St. Louis by canoe yesterday with his two young children, his partner, a prospector named O'Grady, and his four big Eskimo dogs.

They are on the way to Cuba, or as Charley has painted on his canoe, "From Arctic to Tropic—8000 miles," and shortly after arriving at Havana, they expect to turn north, paddle up the Atlantic Coast to New York, up the Hudson River, through Westland Canal and through the great lakes to Lake Superior.

There, traversing rivers and portaging where necessary, they expect to travel back to Hudson Bay and up the bay to Chesterfield Inlet. Then they'll be almost home. A little jaunt of 1500 miles will bring them back to The Pas, Yukon Territory, where they started. "It'll take a long time," Charley said, "but we got a lot of time."

Not a Bean Brummel. He is a quiet, deliberate man, of average height, burned brown by constant exposure to sun and wind. Unimpressed by dress and appearance. At first glance, he might appear to be a Mississippi River fisherman, in stained khaki breeches, cotton golf socks, drab shirt and ancient gray felt hat. The only color in his dress is a red silk bandanna knotted about his throat.

O'Grady, on the other hand, might have flown directly from the Yukon without stopping to change his clothes. Wide hat, red-and-black checkered flannel shirt open at the throat, worn whipcord breeches, high boots—the typical prospector of gold rush stories.

The children adhere to their father's taste in dress. Inez wears a flowered cotton dress, shoes and no stockings, and meets strangers with the unconscious dignity of a child of 9. Tony, her brother, two years younger, sports shoes and stockings while traveling. A faded khaki overall suit is his sole concession to the convention requiring dress.

Charley paddled his canoe to shore just north of the McKinley Bridge yesterday afternoon, at a spot where the river bank is being filled. Cinders, old metal and broken bottles littered the shore.

Not Afraid of Tin Cans. "Well," said Inez, "Tony'll have to put his shoes on now." Tony, however, looked at her with scorn and walked out among the rubbish barefoot. Then with his father, he

BOY CONFESSES HE KILLED EMPLOYER, HID BODY IN BARREL

Kennard Thompson, Baltimore, Says He Then Forged Victim's Name on Many Checks.

By the Associated Press. BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 4.—A 16-year-old boy confessed, police announce, that he killed his employer with a monkey wrench, hid his body in a barrel, and then started a month's career of luxury with money he obtained by forging his slain employer's name on checks.

The boy, Kennard Thompson, was arrested in an automobile he had bought with money obtained by forgery, and Tuesday night the body of his employer, Herbert G. Wetters, a chemist, was found in a barrel in the rear of his establishment in the West End.

Wetters, who made soap and perfumes, lived alone over his shop, which had been closed for several weeks, but his sister and brother-in-law thought he had gone to Ocean City, Md., for a vacation. Young Thompson had been in the employ of Wetters about a year and lived with him.

The boy, police said, confessed that he went to the shop about midnight Aug. 1, under the influence of liquor. His entry, he said, aroused Wetters and the employer came downstairs. Then he struck Wetters on the head with a wrench. The rest of the night, he said, he slept on the floor by the body, and the next day took $20 from the safe and went to New York, returning three days later, he put the body in a barrel, covered it with paper, poured alcohol over it to preserve it and rolled the barrel into a closet.

Four of the youths, arrested in Kennard's new automobile, were held for questioning, and Oliver Beefeet, a junk dealer, was charged with receiving stolen goods after buying the car from Thompson. The sale of the strong box led to discovery of the crime. Eight bank books were found in the shop, indicating that Wetters had a balance of several thousand dollars.

"I don't know why I did it," the boy was quoted by the police. "I had nothing against him. He sometimes had $7000 or $8000 in the safe, but not when I opened it that night."

Police found notes from Wetters' brother, John K. Wetters of Washington, stating he had been to the shop several times.

FRENCH FLYERS OFF FOR DALLAS, TEX., AND $25,000 PRIZE is about 40 miles from Dallas. The takeoff today was witnessed by not more than 200 persons in striking contrast to the thousands who broke through police lines and almost caused a riot of jubilation when the Frenchmen arrived here day before yesterday.

Most Satisfied Man in World, Says Mayor of $25,000. DUBLIN, Sept. 4.—Col. W. E. Easterwood of Dallas, Tex., who offered $25,000 for a transatlantic flight ending at Dallas, says he is the most satisfied man in the world at the success of Capt. Dieudonne Coste's voyage.

"This has been the happiest day of my life, and I am proud it was spent in Dublin," he said. "This flight is one of the biggest things in aviation the world has yet seen."

The Texas oil magnate has been making a brief visit to Dublin, from which city his great-grandfather emigrated to the United States.

Good Will Tour of U. S. Likely. By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The New York Times says Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte probably will make a good tour in the United States at the request of a committee of leading citizens.

While plans are still indefinite, it is understood the committee will be made up of men high in the State, in aviation and in the diplomatic service and that the tour will be financed by private subscription. The chairmanship of the committee has been offered to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, but he waived the honor in favor of a higher official. He is said, however, to have pledged substantial financial aid.

Rene Racover, manager of the French flyers, when asked whether Coste and Bellonte would accept an invitation to make such a flight, replied, "certainly." Capt. Coste referred inquiries to Racover.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who according to the report will be an active member of the committee, said, "there is nothing I can say about it at this time."

Richard F. Hoyt, banker, it is reported, will handle financial arrangements for the flight. The projected plans call for the Ministry to be arranged by the Department of Commerce through its division of aeronautics.

WOMAN OFFERS $100 BRIBE FOR BEAUTY SHOP LICENSE

Applicant from Belleville Makes Proposal to Avoid "Trouble" of Meeting Requirements.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 4.—An offer of a bribe of $100 by a woman residing in Belleville, Ill., to obtain a Missouri license to operate a beauty shop in St. Louis, after she had been informed that she lacked the qualifications to take an examination for a State license, was disclosed today by Dr. James Stewart, secretary of the State Board of Health, which has supervision over beauty shops in Missouri.

Dr. Stewart said no prosecution is contemplated as the woman is not a resident of the State. In a letter the woman offered to pay $100, if a Missouri license were issued, stating she did not wish to go to the trouble of meeting all requirements for examination.

IRISH ARTIST KILLS HIMSELF

Patrick J. Tuohy Found Dead in New York Apartment.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Patrick J. Tuohy, 37 years old, Irish painter, who was regarded as one of the leaders in the literary and artistic renaissance that grew out of Ireland's search for political freedom, was found dead yesterday. Police said he had committed suicide. He was found on a couch in his gas-filled Riverside Drive apartment and apparently had been dead for several days. A friend said Tuohy recently had suffered a nervous breakdown.

Tuohy numbered among his friends James Joyce, Padraic Colum, William Butler Yeats and George Moore, and he had painted portraits of several of them. Among his better known paintings are "Baptism of Christ" and "The Agony in the Garden," both of which hang in Dublin. He came to America about a year ago and was recently represented in an exhibition of contemporary Irish work.

DOCTOR ACCUSED OF POISONING DOGS

Stranded Wife Is Witness Against Otto C. Schwer—Warrant to Be Issued.

A warrant charging "cruelty to animals by poisoning dogs" will be issued against Dr. Otto C. Schwer, 2105 South Broadway, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Le-nore Kamer announced today after issuing an information on the same charge against Dr. Schwer.

The domestic difficulties of the 60-year-old physician were indirectly responsible for the charge being placed against him, Miss Kamer said. Dr. Schwer's wife, who has filed an alienation of affection suit against a nurse formerly employed by the physician, is named on the information as a witness against him on the cruelty to animals charge.

The complainant is Edward Scherer, 3803A Connecticut street, whose two young hunting dogs died of poisoning a week before last Easter. Miss Kamer said that after the Schwer domestic troubles started, Mrs. Schwer, who still lives at 2809 Connecticut street, told Scherer her husband poisoned the dogs.

Mrs. Schwer's $10,000 alienation suit, which was filed recently, is directed against Miss Katie Letkowitz, 2388 Bates street, who formerly worked as a nurse for the physician. Dr. Schwer was arrested last night, at request of the Prosecuting Attorney's office, and was released on $500 bond, returnable Sept. 10.

Dr. Schwer declined to comment on the charge. The penalty, on conviction of cruelty to animals by poisoning dogs, Miss Kamer said, is a fine of $50, a jail term of not more than three months, or both.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 4.—Two robbers late yesterday held up the National Bank & Trust Co. in North Kansas City, locked seven employees in the vault, kidnaped G. T. Smothers, cashier, and es-trapped in an automobile with $14,544. Entering the bank just after it had closed when an employee, thinking them to be customers, admitted them, the robbers, took Smothers into a rear room and forced him to call the employees. The employees were then herded into the vault and the door was closed. The robbers then forced Smothers to accompany them in their car to the vicinity of Penn Valley Park in Kansas City, where they released him, uninjured. He returned to the bank. After 20 minutes' work with a screwdriver one of the imprisoned employees succeeded in opening the lock on the vault.

U. S. LAWYER TELLS OF URGING SALE OF CITY LIGHT PLANT

E. J. Adams Denies Action Was Unethical and Demands Hearing by Federal Trade Commission.

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—E. J. Adams, lawyer in the Federal Trade Commission which is investigating the public utilities industries, denied today that he had any thought of compensation when he tried to engineer the sale of the Eugene, Ore., municipally owned power and light system to the P. W. Chapman Co., utility securities underwriters and investment bankers. Adams returned to Washington this week and upon being informed that charges of unethical conduct had been made against him, asked Commissioner McCulloch for an immediate hearing concerning his connections with the proposed sale. He said he was not at liberty to disclose the plans he had for the industrial development of Eugene, which is his legal residence, but promised to show the commission that he had been guilty of no violation of law or ethics.

Explains His Action.
"I wish it distinctly understood he said, 'that I took an interest in the sale of the Eugene power and light system solely in what I believed to be the best interests of the city and without any expectation, agreement or desire for financial reward.'

"Eugene is still my home. Some months ago a friend of mine from Philadelphia told me that a group of Eastern capitalists were looking for a Western locality with possibilities of industrial development and I naturally thought of Eugene. The names of the interested parties were not disclosed and I did not learn for some time that the Chapman Co. was interested. My friend suggested that I might be able to help build up sentiment for transfer of the power plant from public to private ownership, the only condition upon which the promoters would consider the industrial project.

"It is well known that nothing could be done without a vote of the people under the State law. The most I could do was to make preliminary overtures which seemed to be welcomed by the Eugene Water Board and its members."

Says City Officials Cooled.
Adams added that he had made an appointment for the San Francisco engineer of the Chapman company to make a thorough personal investigation of the Eugene plant. After agreeing to this, Adams said the Water Board apparently cooled toward the plan and by its attitude convinced the engineer that it would be useless to proceed with the investigation.

Before coming to the Trade Commission, where he is employed at $4600 a year as a lawyer on the special review board in charge of fraudulent and misleading advertising cases, Adams was an assistant Gen. A. C. Dalton, who was general manager of the Federal Merchant Fleet Corporation when the United States Lines were sold to the Chapman company.

Charges against Adams probably will not be considered by the commission until Chairman Humphrey, who recommended him for the position, returns to Washington, next week, from Seattle, Wash.

YOUTHS MAKE 3000-MILE CANOE TRIP AT COST OF $125

Sell Their Boat Here and Start for Home in Omaha, Neb.

Francis R. Ennewold and Herbert P. Schwartz are on their way home to Omaha today after concluding a 3000-mile canoe trip at St. Louis yesterday. Starting from Ely, Minn., they paddled north along the Canadian border through lakes and rivers, living at times with Indians on reservations and camping out during the entire trip. They turned west, journeyed past International Falls and up the Big Fork River to Chain of Lakes, through the lakes to Deer River and down Deer River to the upper waters of the Mississippi.

The entire trip, Ennewold said, cost $125, of which $25 was spent for the canoe and the remainder for food. Ennewold, who is 20 years old, formerly worked in an Omaha sporting goods store, and Schwartz, 18, was employed in a bank. They sold their canoe here for $10 and started back to Omaha today, "on the highway."

MAYOR OPPOSES MAKING CHANGE IN BRIDGE CONTRACTS

Miller Says Both Muench and Newton Agree With Him City's Interests Are Fully Protected.

Mayor Miller stands by the city's bridge contracts with the Terminal Railroad Association as drafted and thinks any changes in wording not only are unnecessary but would cause considerable delay in the commencement of extensive improvements contemplated under the contracts.

He announced this yesterday following a conference with City Counselor Muench, Cleveland A. Newton, special counsel for the Bridge Committee of the Board of Aldermen, and Attorney Thomas Pierce, representing the Terminal. The Mayor said both Muench and Newton agreed with him that the contracts, which he already has signed, fully protect the interests of the city and the rights of all railroads to use the Municipal Bridge on equal terms. Muench was instructed to inform President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, who was chairman of the Bridge Committee, of the decision of the conference and, if Neun agrees, then to recommend to Comptroller Neale that he sign the contracts.

Under the bridge ordinance enacted in June the Mayor and Comptroller were authorized to execute the contracts on behalf of the city. The Terminal Association and its member railroads already have approved the contracts.

Under the contract as to the Municipal Bridge the Terminal will advance to the city the money to build five new approaches necessary to equip the bridge for full use by the Terminal and its proprietary lines and the city will repay the loan out of rentals accruing to it from use of the structure by the railroads. The approaches will cost approximately $3,250,000.

and in addition the Terminal will build a new $600,000 Union Station in East St. Louis and make track improvements there.

A companion contract provides that at the commencement of use of the Municipal Bridge by the Terminal the city may abolish tolls on the Eads Bridge as to pedestrians and all vehicles except commercial vehicles by paying to the Terminal rental of $140,000 a year, the rental to come out of revenue accruing to the city from use of the Municipal Bridge by the railroads. The Terminal guarantees that its use of the Municipal Bridge at the gates provided in the city's general bridge ordinance will amount to a minimum of $500,000 a year.

After the terms of these contracts were made public the Merchants' Exchange and the Alton & Southern Railroad requested that they be amended to provide specifically that all railroads should have the right to use the Municipal Bridge on equal terms and that if the interlocking system on the bridge was operated by the Terminal, the latter should guarantee impartial handling of all trains.

Mayor Miller pointed out the contract provides use of the bridge under the terms of the general bridge ordinance which covers the points raised by the objectors.

(Street Floor.)*GROGER KICKS YOUNG ROBBER OUT OF STORE

John Frewer, 4823 Page, Was Closing Place When Hold-up Man Entered.

John Frewer, grocer at 4823 Page boulevard, heard a command to raise his hands as he was preparing to close his store last night. A nervous young man held his hand in his pocket as if grasping a pistol.

Frewer didn't think the pocket bulged enough to contain both a hand and a pistol. He walked around the counter and advanced toward the intruder, who turned and fled. Frewer literally kicked him out the door.

A few minutes later a youth of the same description appeared in the drug store of Mrs. Mary Lipman, 4844 Page, with the same gesture and command. Mrs. Lipman and her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Epstein, ran out a rear door and the young man out the front door.

The grocery of Earl J. Katherston, 5550 Mackinac avenue, was robbed of $170 by two armed men who locked the proprietor, a butcher and a delivery boy in a refrigerator. They freed themselves after the robbers had gone.

Seated in an automobile on Enright avenue near Union boulevard, Price Tackwood, 5568 Delmar boulevard, and a young woman were held up by a Negro who took a small amount of change and a watch from the man.

Later, Philip Schmidt, 4216 Farin avenue, reported he and Miss Mary Rehnert, 4211 Lexington avenue, had been held up by a Negro of the same description as they entered an automobile near Grand boulevard and Enright avenue. After taking $12 and a watch from Schmidt and a $20 ring from his companion, the Negro ordered them to drive him west and left the machine at Hamilton avenue and Page boulevard.

Samuel Mastman, proprietor of a grocery at 818 Clarendon avenue, was held up for $45 by an armed man.

7 MORE NEW YORK STORES TO INCREASE WORK FORCES
In Addition Four Other Companies Intend to Hire New Employees for Fall Rush.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Relief to the unemployed was offered yesterday by seven more department stores and four other large companies, which sent word to the city's free employment bureau that they would offer "100 per cent cooperation."

Bloomingdale's said it would ask the bureau to supply help for an anniversary sale on Sept. 15, and would take on 500 men and women Oct. 1, to prepare for the Christmas rush.

Other stores which expect to use the bureau's lists to enlarge their forces are Oppenheim & Collins, Abraham & Straus, Loeb's, Namm's, Martin's and Ludwig Baumann, Charles' Stores, the St. Regis Restaurants, Delmonico Hotel and the United Cigar Stores.

R. H. Macy & Co., which on Tuesday announced it would take on 1000 men and women Oct. 1, was swamped yesterday with nearly 5000 applications above the usual number. The applicants had failed to notice the date when the expansion of the staff was to take place.

BOWLING GREEN BANKER'S TRIAL SENT TO CLAYTON
A. K. Wilson Charged With Accepting Deposits When Depository Was Failing.

Records in the case of Alex K. Wilson, charged on two counts with receiving deposits when he knew the Peoples Savings Bank of Bowling Green, Mo., was in a failing condition, were filed in Circuit Court at Clayton today where the case was taken on a change of venue.

Wilson, who was assistant cashier of the bank, which was found to be short $70,000 when closed by the State in April, 1924, was convicted of embezzling $1000 by a jury at St. Charles more than a year ago. He is at liberty under bond pending an appeal. Charles Wenkle, cashier of the bank, shot and killed himself the day after the closing.

Attorneys for Wilson declare citizens of Pike and St. Charles Counties were prejudiced against Wilson and that he could not obtain a fair trial there. He is charged with accepting a $623 deposit from Earl M. Staley on Nov. 1, 1927, and a deposit of $155 from Fred Wood three weeks before.

STUDENTS SUE SHIP CAPTAIN FOR RETURN TRIP TO U. S.
Four California Youths Win $1500 Judgment in Court at Cape Town.

By the Associated Press. CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 4.—Four California youths named Evans, Douglas, Needles and Spilane today obtained an order from the Supreme Court against the master of the Norwegian steamship Litops in a suit to compel him to pay their way back home in time for them to resume their college studies at the opening of the next term.

The youths, who signed as deckhands on the Norwegian steamer for a three month vacation asked the court to compel the captain to post $1500 to get them back before Glendale College opens. They allege that had been their agreement with the captain. The court ordered the ship not to leave Cape Town until the amount had been paid.

STREET CARMEN APPEAL TO CAULFIELD ON DAY-OFF PLAN

Tells Them He Has No Power in Matter, but Will Obtain Additional Facts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 4.—Officers of the St. Louis Street Car Men's Union yesterday sought the assistance of Gov. Caulfield in their effort to obtain a day off for the 3100 regular motormen and conductors every eight days in order to provide work for 90 extra men, discharged last Monday.

Gov. Caulfield expressed sympathy with the movement to avert further unemployment, but explained that he has no power to force the Public Service Co. to re-employ the extra men. The Governor said he would obtain additional facts in the case, and will do what he can to assist the union. The dismissal of the extra men followed the expiration of a 60-day agreement under which regular union employees took a day off in eight, their places being taken by extra men. The company declined to make the arrangement permanent, although saving about $125 a day because of the lower wage scale of the extra employees, Harry Nelson, union president, told Gov. Caulfield.

KATY TO INTERVENE IN PLAN TO BUY COTTON BELT ROAD
Wants Southern Pacific to Preserve the Existing Channels of Commerce.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad was authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to intervene in the application of the Southern Pacific to acquire control of the St. Louis-Southwestern Railroad.

At the legal department of the M.-K.-T. here, it was said today that the Interstate Commerce Commission would be asked, if it grants the Southern Pacific's application, to issue at the same time an order providing that existing channels of commerce shall be preserved so far as possible.

At present, the M.-K.-T. and other Southwestern lines receive a share of through freight from the Southern Pacific, at junction points in Texas. If the Southern Pacific acquires the Cotton Belt, the tendency might be to divert this business wholly to that line, to the detriment of the other routes and the communities on them. This could be prevented, counsel thinks, by an order issued as a condition of the granting of the Southern Pacific's application. The Missouri Pacific, Frisco and Kansas City Southern are, to a certain extent, in the same position as the M.-K.-T. as to the interchange of business with the Southern Pacific in Texas.

ALLEGED SLAV SPY LEADER KILLED ON ITALIAN BORDER
(Copyright, 1930.)

ROME, Sept. 4.—Papers found on the body of Joseph Kucsek, alleged Slav spy who was shot at the frontier near Trieste Tuesday night, affirm other evidence in possession of the court trying 16 Slavs for treason there, that they planned to assassinate Premier Mussolini.

The accused are led by Francis Marussich. They all live on the Carso, near Trieste, which belonged to Austria before the war. The police produced evidence that they are working with a Jugoslav secret society organized for an anti-Fascist revolution.

Police say Kucsek, who escaped into Jugoslavia some time ago, frequently crossed the border to distribute funds and propaganda among conspirators. He was responsible for many acts of terrorism, police assert. The police found papers on the body which involve other Slav inhabitants. The 16 on trial face the death sentence.

POWDER
REMOVES GREASE SPOTS
WITHOUT LEAVING A "RING!"
Most silks are now "weighted" or "loaded" with foreign substances to make them appear of better quality. Liquid cleaners dissolve this "weighting" or "loading," and this causes "rings" on Silks. We have therefore created Carbona Grease Absorbent Powder for use on Silks only. This Powder will not affect "weighting" or "loading" in any way it absorbs Grease Spots instead of dissolving them, and no "rings" can result from its use on Silks.

SON MAY FIGHT WILL OF VAN LEAR BLACK

Publisher's Oldest Boy Cut Off With Trust Fund of $50,000.

By the Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 4.—Van Lear Black Jr., cut off with a $50,000 trust fund in the will of his father, Baltimore publisher and world flyer, said today he was not willing to say whether he would contest the will.

"I have nothing to say as yet, but may have later," he said over the telephone at Lancaster, Pa. He was represented by an attorney in court at a court hearing yesterday when the will was admitted to probate.

The will of the publisher and capitalist, who disappeared Aug. 18 from his yacht while on the way from New York to the Chesapeake, was admitted after the captain and steward of the yacht and Mr. Black's valet testified they believed he had fallen overboard accidentally and perished.

The will, disposing of an estate estimated at several millions, failed to mention by name the publisher's widow, Mrs. Jessie Gary Black, or three of their five children, but they share in the residuary estate. Mrs. T. Stuart Blackiston, a daughter, and her husband received a total of $250,000 in a special bequest, and $100,000 was bequeathed to Mrs. J. Walter Lord, who was aboard the yacht when he disappeared. Control of the A. S. Abell Co., publishers of the Baltimore Sun and Evening Sun, was left to a brother, Harry C. Black.

Van Lear Black Jr. Husband of Helen Mitchell Frampton.

Van Lear Black Jr. was married in St. Louis Jan. 21 last to Miss Helen Mitchell Frampton, 7314 Westmoreland avenue, University City. The wedding took place in Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, and was an event of importance in the St. Louis social season. The younger Black, a former Yale student served with the United States Marines in Nicaragua.

TRAFFIC LAW VIOLATORS TO GET PSYCHOPATHIC TEST

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 4.—A new system of dealing with persistent traffic law violators by subjecting them to psychopathic tests has been begun by Magistrate Harry H. Foster.

Henceforth, the Magistrate announced, all persons who have committed serious traffic offenses two or more times, such as speeding or driving while intoxicated, will be turned over to Northwestern University psychologists for examination.

He made this announcement after university psychologists had examined a 19-year-old youth who had made his third appearance in court after driving his car into another automobile. The psychologists gave the youth the Stanford-Binet test and announced his mental age was 8 years and 8 months.

COURT HEARS PLEA TO SPARE MINIATURE GOLF COURSES

Takes Under Advice Three Petitions to Enjoin Their Removal Under Zoning Law.

Suits for injunctions filed by operators of three miniature golf courses seeking to restrain police from closing their courses were taken under advisement following a hearing today before Circuit Judge Fitzsimmons.

Police contend the courses are located in residential districts, contrary to the zoning ordinance. Operators of the course contend the zoning ordinance does not apply because the several pieces of property had been used for business purposes before the zoning ordinance was passed. Two of them claim exemption as private clubs.

Ten courses involved are the Triple B, 4238 Lindell boulevard; Kingshighway-Maryland Golf Club, 300 North Kingshighway, and the Hinky-Dink Golf Club, 1622 Mississipp avenue. They have been operating under temporary restraining orders issued by Circuit Judge Hall.

EDUCATOR SETS HOUSE AFIRE AND IS BURNED TO DEATH

Dumont Lotz, Royerton, Ind., Said to Be Demented; Wife and Son Hurt.

By the Associated Press.
MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 4.—Dumont Lotz, 65 years old, at one time a widely known educator, set fire to his home at Royerton, near here, today and was burned to death. Mrs. Lotz was seriously burned. John, 23, a son, also suffered injuries. Lotz was said to have become demented as a result of a long illness.

John Lotz discovered his father scattering gasoline on the floor and lighting it. He grappled with him unsuccessfully and soon the entire house, a brick structure, was afire. Mrs. Lotz escaped by leaping from a bedroom window.

Lotz had taught in several West Coast universities. He returned to his birthplace in Royerton several years ago.

LIBEL DECISION UPHOLD BY THE SUPREME COURT

Damages Awarded F. C. Seested of Kansas City Are Reduced to $125,000.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 4.—The Missouri Supreme Court today affirmed a libel judgment of $125,000 for Frank C. Seested of Kansas City, former circulation manager of the Kansas City Star, against the Post Printing and Publishing Co., which formerly published the Kansas City Post. The suit involved editorials published in the Kansas City Post in 1921, which Seested charged questioned his loyalty to the United States during the World War.

The judgment is the largest one ever rendered by the Missouri Supreme Court. The Jackson County Circuit Court awarded Seested $200,000 damages when the suit was tried in 1926, of which $100,000 was for actual damages and $100,000 punitive damages. The Supreme Court held the award for actual damages was excessive and ordered $75,000 of that award remitted, leaving the judgment stand at $125,000.

The editorial which formed the basis of the suit were published in Post at the close of an American Legion convention in Kansas City. The publishing company was owned by E. O. Boudin and H. H. Tamm, newspaper publishers of Denver. The Post later was purchased by Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City.

Chief Justice W. T. Ragsdale wrote the opinion affirming the judgment in Division No. 1 of the court. The other judges of the division concurred.

Toss-Toss-Toss All Night Long!

Sleepless Nights
When you go to bed at night tired and exhausted and still can't sleep and you toss fitfully on your bed all night long, trying first one position and then another, it's almost a sure sign that you are "acid." Acidity, the curse of our modern existence, not only causes acid indigestion with sourness, burning and gas, but it plays havoc with our nervous systems, making us jumpy, fidgety and so restless at night that we can't sleep, even though we be dog-tired.

Acidity may be due to a number of things, but usually unnatural eating habits, irregular hours, overwork and excessive smoking are factors. Any person with any symptoms of acidity should know about a remarkable new corrective of acidity that has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany. This new acid corrective comes in the form of small, white tablets, called Magnesia Oxidized, which do not have to be chewed, but may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxidized, upon contact with the acid in the stomach,

SON WINS ON APPEAL AGAINST HIS MOTHER

Supreme Court Awards R. J. Ambruster Share in St. Louis Undertaking Firm.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 4.—A controversy over ownership of the William Ambruster Undertaking Co. of St. Louis, control of which had been acquired by Mrs. Edith E. Ambruster, widow of the founder, by exchanging his funeral bill for his stock in administering his estate, was settled today by the Missouri Supreme Court, which ordered Mrs. Ambruster to turn over lightly less than half the stock to her son, Robert J. Ambruster, in a suit filed by the son.

Commissioner G. R. Ellison reversed a judgment of St. Louis Circuit Court in favor of Mrs. Ambruster, and directed the lower court to enter a decree requiring her to issue nine and one-tenth shares of the 20 shares of the company stock to her son. The Commissioner also ordered that $2475 in back dividends be paid the son. All the judges of Division No. 1 concurred in the opinion. Mrs. Ambruster retains title to the remainder of the stock.

The company, capitalized at only $2400, paid dividends totaling $12,000 in 1924 and 1925, after payment of expenses and salaries to Mrs. Ambruster and her son. William Ambruster founded the company and had it incorporated in 1915, with a capital of $2000, in 20 shares, of which he held 15, his wife, three shares, and their son, Robert, two shares. William Ambruster died in 1916 and the widow was appointed administratrix of the estate.

Commissioner Ellison said the evidence showed that Mrs. Ambruster, as administratrix, sold her husband's 15 shares to herself, and paid for the stock by causing his funeral bill of $1546, rendered by his undertaking company against his estate, to be receipted and canceled without paying any consideration to the company. The Commissioner said the bill later was charged off the company's books as unpaid, and that the transaction involved the use of the company's assets by Mrs. Ambruster to buy the stock for herself.

Robert Ambruster managed the company for several years, with his mother as advisor, but left the firm in January, 1928, after a controversy with his mother over the ownership and division of the profits. He filed suit to obtain a division of the 15 shares his father had held, and was operating a competing undertaking business when the suit was tried. He alleged his mother made an oral contract with him in 1917 that he was to manage the company until she accumulated $50,000, when she would turn the business over to him. Mrs. Ambruster denied making such an agreement. The evidence showed that Mrs. Ambruster received $87,823 from the company from 1922 to 1927 and held property appraised at more than $150,000.

MAYOR CONSIDERS $200,000 FUND TO AID UNEMPLOYED

City Executive Plans to Ask Aldermen to Make Appropriation for Relief This Winter

Considering plans for the city to assist in the relief of unemployment during the winter, Mayor Miller today instructed his secretary Jules Field, to have all department heads submit lists of public work which might be done during the winter.

The Mayor said he had in mind asking the Board of Aldermen, when it convenes Sept. 26, to appropriate possibly $200,000, out of general revenue for the relief of unemployed St. Louisans during the winter.

While the plan is still in a tentative form, Mayor Miller said he had considered appointing a citizens' committee to take charge of the fund. The employment of temporary labor for removing snow or repairing sidewalks at from $3.50 to $2 a day probably would absorb a considerable part of the fund, the Mayor said.

The Mayor said it was essential that the ordinance contain a clause requiring at least a year's residence in St. Louis for beneficiaries of the fund, to prevent an invasion of "floaters" such as Cleveland experienced last winter in attempting to carry out a similar relief measure.

M'GRAW SIGNS FIVE YEAR CONTRACT TO CONTINUE AS NEW YORK PILOT

VETERAN STILL HAS HOPE THAT 1930 TEAM WILL WIN PENNANT

Wilson to Wear His Straw Until Flag Race Ends

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURG, Sept. 4.—When Hack Wilson's straw hat comes off to stay off this season, the National League pennant race will be history.

The pudgy Cub home-run hitter today defied convention and his teammates to knock the hay bonnet off.

"It stays on my dome until the race is over," Hack said.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—John J. McGraw, generally given credit for transforming New York from a joke city in the major leagues to one of the best baseball cities in the country, will be at the helm of the Giants for at least five more years.

McGraw put his name on a contract yesterday and thus quieted all rumors that the man who has been in charge of the Giants since 1903 and is a stockholder and vice president of the club would not be back next year and the years to follow. McGraw's present contract expires at the close of this season, but Charles A. Stoneham, president of the club, and McGraw reached an agreement six months ago. The signing yesterday was merely a formality.

Just a Formality.

In making the announcement of McGraw's signing another long-term contract, Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, said that it had been the club's plan to have formal signing at the expiration of the present contract, but rumors of McGraw's leaving the Giants and the National League prompted immediate action.

Manager McGraw himself handed a statement from President Stoneham to newspaper men at the downtown offices of the Giants yesterday afternoon.

"Mr. Stoneham and I reached an agreement six months ago," he said, "and another contract would have been signed about the beginning of the new year, but these foolish stories going around that I would manage another club, or even leave the National League for the American League, caused us to conclude the business now."

Rumors have persisted, since the Giants went on their last Western trip without the manager, that the man who has been in charge of the Giants since 1903, and is a stockholder and vice president of the club, would not retain his place.

It was explained that ill health has kept the manager from the bench. McGraw's health is reported much improved, but his physician warned him that he could not hope to regain his health if he insisted on braving the heat and humidity of the bench.

Still Has Hope.

McGraw is hopeful that his 1930 team will win the National League championship for him.

"No, the race is not over yet by a long shot," he said. "We certainly have a chance."

"Will you be able to take a seat on the bench if the Giants get in the world series?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," was the reply, accompanied by the famous McGraw smile. "I am sure, in that event, the doctor would permit."

St. Louis Stars Beat Pittsburgh In Night Contest

The St. Louis Stars won an 11-inning battle from the Homestead Grays of Pittsburgh, Eastern colored champions, 6-5, under the lights at Stars' Park last night before a crowd of 5000. The locals won four out of five games in the series.

Three timely hits, each scoring men with two out, were the winning runs. With two out in the eleventh, he hit a double, scoring Creacy, who started the Stars' rally in the eighth with a homer with a man on base. Charleston hit for the circuit with a mate on the bags, while Harris smashed out a round tripper with none on.

Ross, former Star, hurled a great game for the visitors, striking out nine men and giving but one walk during the 11 innings.

The Stars will engage the Houston Black Buffaloes, colored champions of the South, in a little world series beginning Friday night. Games will be played Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday nights. The Sunday game will be played in the afternoon.

SIX STAKES ON AUTUMN CARD AT LATONIA

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LATONIA, Ky., Sept. 4.—Stake

blanks for the Latonia Jockey Club's autumn meeting were issued today. Six stakes, valued at $57,500, are scheduled with the Latonia Championship, $25,000 added, featuring the program.

The first event to be decided will be the Fort Thomas Handicap for 2-year-olds. The Autumn and Covington Handicaps follow. The other stakes scheduled are Latonia Cup Handicap and Queen City Handicap. The latter race is for juveniles.

Entries for the Latonia Championship and Queen City Handicap have closed, but the other stakes will remain open until Sept. 17.

The Latonia Cup is a grueling test for thoroughbreds, being at a distance of two miles and one-quarter. It carries an added value of $7500. The Championship, for 2-year-olds exclusively, is at a mile and three-quarters. The Fort Thomas and Autumn Handicaps are six-furlong prints, the Covington at a mile and one-sixteenth and the Queen City at one mile.

ever they are of great significance and importance to the game itself. The success or failure of the race on the shift will result in perfect timing and execution of this style of play. The elimination of the screened pass will very soon produce a forward passing attack far more brilliant in conception and execution than ever before. As you watch your football this year, you will see without fully realizing it perhaps, our game of football at its very best—a fairer game than at any time in its history, with highest possible values on speed, precision of play and strategy.

POLO LINEUPS
UNCERTAIN FOR SERIES OPENER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4. — With their best matches a matter of history, the United States and Great Britain polo teams today had only one thing to do: wait for the opening of the series at Madison Square Garden on Saturday at 8 o'clock.

Just who will ride forth in the initial encounter is more or less a conjecture and probably will not be until the eve of the opening.

The following schedule for the opening games will be followed: Wood County Council vs. Clayton; Santa Cruz of Normandy; West Groves vs. University City; and the Council of Maplewood vs. Council of Overland.

The games will start at 7:30 o'clock and the games will begin at 8 o'clock.

Signs with Williamsport, Pa. Kelly, former Hazleton, Pa. and a veteran performer, signed last week by the Williamsport Grays.

skirmish, when Capt. Tommy Hitchcock of the American team and Capt. C. H. Tremayne, non-playing leader of the invaders, announce their lineups.

If the two captains adhere to the lineups selected for yesterday's final test matches, then Eric Pedley, Earl A. S. Hopping, Hitchcock and Winston Guest will ride on the American team with Lewis L. Lacey, Gerald Liding, Capt. C. T. J. (Pat) Roark and Lieut. Humphrey Guinness making up the English quartet.

Neither team showed much in the way of offensive power yesterday. Hitchcock's variety "Whites" gaining an 11 to 8 decision to the "Reds" after giving away four goals while the English defeated a picked American combination 8 to 5.

Pedley and Hitchcock for the white-clad regulars and Beemke.

playing back for the "Reds," were the stars of yesterday's play. Each tallied three goals, most of them on spectacular shots from difficult angles. Hitchcock's return to long range hitting form was a salient feature. Hopping fitted in well with the team work but his mallet work was erratic.

ELEVEN WOLVERINES WIN
BACK PLACES ON SQUAD

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 4.—Eleven University of Michigan football players have been placed back on the eligible list as a result of their having attended summer school, it was announced today.

They include Harry Newman, promising halfback from Detroit, and Tom Castle, hard-hitting tackle from Chicago. Kirk Holland, Evanston (Ill.) halfback, has little chance of gaining eligibility before school opens.

FREEMAN MAKES
WEIGHT EASILY
FOR TITLE BOUT

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 4.—Tommy Freeman has brushed aside any doubt about his ability to make the weight when he climbs into the ring tomorrow night to bid for the welterweight championship newly acquired by Young Jack Thompson, the California Negro.

Freeman's followers had been anxious about his weight, but the Cleveland scaled yesterday at 145 pounds, two under the limit, and was pronounced on fighting edge.

As for Thompson, who will defend his title for the first time since he battled it away from Jackie Fields at Detroit, there's nothing to worry about. "It's just a fight, and I've been in a lot of 'em."

The champion, however, will be out to avenge himself for the trimming he took at Freeman's hands at Detroit a year ago. The odds that he'll do it are 6 to 5, as far as the experts are concerned.

The bout, over the distance of 15 rounds, will be held at League Park. Advance ticket sales had reached the $28,000 mark today.

HOLLYWOOD CHIEF SETS
NEW WORLD RECORD IN WINNING $10,000 TROT

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Two world records were smashed yesterday in the Grand Circuit races here. The first came when Hollywood Chief came home in 2:06 1/4 to win the final heat of the Empire State $10,000 trotting handicap, that time being the fastest ever made by a trotter from a standing start.

The second was in the Yates Hotel 2-year-old pacing event, when Handy Dillon was chased home in 2:04 1/4, lowering the record of the unmet Adam for 2-year-old pacers by one-quarter of a second.

Tom Berry had a field day of it with his Hanover Farm horses, winning the final heat of the American Horse Breeders' Futurity with Hanover's Bertha, taking all three in the State Fair stake for 2:20 trotters with Foster Dillon, and grabbing a trio of starts in the 2:18 trot with Helio Hanover.

Gay Britton, third choice, took the Syracuse Hotel stake for 3-year-olds in straight heats.

MISSOURI MUST DEVELOP 1930
FOOTBALL TEAM

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 4.—Coach

Gwynn Henry, University of Missouri grid mentor, not usually prone to broadcast "bear stories" on the prospects for Tiger eleven, has clambered on the bandwagon and is telling a story of football misfortune this fall evening, if not surpassing, those of Ozzie Soles, general Drake U. mentor, who is regarded as the championship winning "gloomy dean" of Missouri Valley coaches. Henry's plaint is not without justification.

Three major cases of worry beset the Missouri coach. Here they are, as outlined by Coach Henry:

1. Usually martalling at least two complete veteran backfields, Coach Henry has as his complete veteran backfield resources Stanley Cox, diminutive but promising St. Joseph, Mo., boy, who lettered twice as a reserve.

2. Lack of veteran strength at the center position, the key point of Henry's style of defense. Only Lawrence McTuley, reserve of last year at center, remains, and Henry says he will be forced to make Bob Armstrong, 100-pound tackle, into a center, depriving him of using Armstrong as a fullback as planned last year.

3. Most damaging of all, the strict enforcement of scholastic eligibility rules for athletes which already has cost the 1929 eleven services of seven regulars.

Certainly, a poorer theoretical "paper" outlook for a football team has not faced Missouri coaches since Henry's advent at the State University. Yet, despite gloomy predictions, Missouri is rated to finish at least a comfortable distance from the bottom of the Big Six standings this fall.

The reason for the pervading optimism despite the lack of material is Gwynn Henry. From a purely theoretical analysis material for the 1930 Missouri eleven would be rated only slightly better, if at all, than that of most of the smaller Missouri colleges. Tiger followers are placing their hope in Henry's phenomenal ability to develop players and to win from more powerful eleven on strategy.

There will be none of the overconfidence of the last several years, Missouri coaches and followers believe, pointing out that the Tiger eleven last fall, although one of Missouri's best from the standpoint of material and finishing high in conference standings, turned in some highly disappointing performances because of its "cocksure" tendency.

A further bearish note in Tiger grid stock entered today with the announcement by Coach Henry that Wesley Nash, veteran halfback and fullback of St. Louis, will not return to the Missouri squad this fall. Nash had been counted on as a mainstay.

Offsetting this, however, was word from Capt. Leonard McGill of Odean, Mo., veteran guard, that he will be in condition to play this fall. McGill, stricken with appendicitis, was told by physicians an operation would be necessary. After more than a week's treatment, however, McGill has decided to delay, if possible, the operation until after the close of the grid season.

It was not so much the heavy loss itself of veterans through graduation, ineligibility and failure to return to school that has cost the Missourians heavily this year, but the fact that nine of those lost were veteran backs, constituting almost the entire Tiger offensive outlay.

These are: Nash; Carl Johannsmeyer, St. Louis; William Oldham, Kansas City; John Walder, Kansas City; Harold Garner, Quapaw, Ok.; Scott Kennedy, Kansas City; Bernie Schaff, St. Joseph; Russell Dill, Albany; L. L. Derry, Poplar Bluff.

Of these three, Johannsmeyer and Oldham, scholastically ineligible, and Nash, failing to return, were counted on last fall, along with the diminutive Cox, to form a first-rate backfield for the Tigers this fall.

In all, out of a total of 25 veterans, 12 have been graduated, six lost through scholastic ineligibility and, of the remaining seven, some are in doubtful standing as to eligibility, but are expected to be in good scholastic condition for the result of summer study.

Aside from the six losses of varsity letter men through ineligibility, the absence from the squad of Marvin Kapp of St. Joseph, center, and Ted Halverson, Webster Groves, both of whom were rated as of varsity caliber, as the result of faltering school work, also adds a weakening factor.

Memphis High Owens. Chick Owens, a right-handed pitcher who won 20 games and lost six with an independent outfit at Helena, Ark., has been signed by the Memphis Chicks for 1931.

TORTURED STEEL...

can't shave you gently.

YOU can't torture or distort a Probak blade, no matter how tight you clamp it in your double-edge razor. Most of the bending shock and strain escapes through the butterfly channeling—Probak's scientifically shaped blade perforations. Duo-tempered steel absorbs what little shock and strain are left—before they reach the finely-honed shaving edges. Your Probak blade is as keen in the razor as it was in the package.

Your face will tell you there's something new and different in shaving with a shock-absorbing Probak blade. Buy a package now. Use two blades in your double-edge razor (old or new model). See how Probak wipes off wiry hairs without pull, drag or burn—leaving the skin smooth, cool, refreshed. If you don't find Probaks far the best double-edge blades you ever used—return the package and your dealer will refund every cent—$1 for 10, 50c for 5.

Roosevelt-Taft Break Traced
To Note Sent to Former as He Was Starting for African HuntLetters of Aid Says Roosevelt Was Angry at Mention of Charles Taft as Factor in Nomination of Brother.By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Back in March, 1909, William Howard Taft, just entering the presidency, sent a gold ruler and a letter of farewell to Theodore Roosevelt, just emerging from the presidency, who was embarking for Europe on his way to Africa to hunt wild animals.

Mr. Taft intrusted the present and letter to Major Archibald W. Butt, military aid first to Roosevelt and then to Taft. Butt started for New York. He found Col. Roosevelt just as he was sailing on the steamship Hamburg. The former president did not have time to open the letter before the gangplank was lowered. He said he would read it at sea.

Maj. Butt went back to the White House. He told Mr. Taft of Col. Roosevelt's appreciation of his gift and message. The President gleamed. He said he would anxiously wait for Col. Roosevelt's answer to his letter.

Twenty years later he was lowered into his grave in Arlington Cemetery without ever having received it.

Offended by Letter.
Something in that letter peeved Roosevelt, Taft, unaware, waited vainly. Gradually the fear crept over him that he has lost the friendship of his political creator. He did not know how or why. But it was not until late in the summer that Taft learned what it was in the letter which had displeased the Colonel. On Aug. 25 Major Butt wrote:

"The President told me yesterday that the whole trouble between him and Mr. Roosevelt started, he feared, with the letter that I carried to the ex-President when he was sailing for Europe."

"Something offended him in that letter," said the president, "but I was never certain what it was until recently, when someone who was with him on the steamer told me. It seems that I said that I never would forget what he and my brother Charlie had done for me. He became very angry and said how dared I couple him with my brother, and he would teach me to compare what he had done for me with what my brother had done. He used the same time using some rather objectionable terms in description of old Charlie. Of course he does not think that Charlie was a factor in my nomination, and for this reason he does not understand what my brother did."

All this, and more, is disclosed, in Taft and Roosevelt, the intimate letters of Archibald Butt, published by Doubleday, Doran &amp; Co.

The letters trace for the first time the development of the break between the two great leaders which resulted in the bitter political fight of 1912 in which Taft was dragged from power by Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson became President.

Most of the letters were written to Major Butt's sister-in-law, Mrs. Lewis F. Butt, and are addressed "Dear Clara."

Invited to White House.
Other evidence of a diminution of the Colonel's approval accumulated. Taft had dismissed Roosevelt's friend, Clifford Pinchot, from his post as chief of the forestry division. He knew Roosevelt would not like that but he thought Pinchot's open defiance left him no other course. He was right about Roosevelt not liking it.

When Roosevelt came back to the United States in June, 1910, President Taft sent Butt to New York to meet him and sent a letter inviting the ex-President to come to the White House. A week later Roosevelt acknowledged the invitation, but told the President that he was opposed to the idea of ex-Presidents visiting Washington and would therefore never come to Washington while any of the political people were there. On June 24 Butt wrote:

"The letter was almost too frank to please me, for, after all, ex-Presidents have come to Washington and there is no reason why Mr. Roosevelt should not come except for some ulterior reason that does not show in the letter itself. I think the President was somewhat disappointed at its tone."

Taft's Regret Over Break.
The summer wore on. Roosevelt continued to ignore Taft. The agony of spirit through which Taft was passing over his break with Roosevelt finally brought him to the point of tears. On Jan. 19, 1911, Maj. Butt quotes him as follows:

"Archie," said the President, "I don't see what I could have done to make things different. But it distresses me very deeply to think of him sitting there at Oyster Bay alone and feeling himself deserted. I know just what he feels."

"The President stopped talking and looked far ahead of him. He reached up and wiped his eyes. He did not know whether a tear had formed there or not, but I could see that something of a big nature was going on in his mind. He may have been reviewing all those years of intimacy as he came face to face with some thought of disloyalty on his part. I started to rise, but he waved me back and he sat for some time longer in absolute silence."

The letters of Maj. Butt show that President Taft expected Charles E. Hughes to be President. In his letter of Nov. 15, 1909, he quotes the President as saying: "If I am defeated for the next nomination I think it will be by Hughes. And I don't think he will allow his name to be used unless he feels that I have no chance to win. I will have a chance to offer him a seat on the supreme bench. He will be inclined to accept and he will waver and he will then consult his wife and she, I think, will be the final influence which will cause him to decline it. If he does not accept the judiciary I expect to see him President some day."

Drafted Proposal Defends

The proposed consolidation of St. Louis and St. Louis County as Greater St. Louis was debated last night before the County Real Estate Board, at the Clayton City Hall, by Prof. Thomas H. Reed, consultant of the City and County Metropolitan Development Committee, and Circuit Judge Lashly of the county, an outspoken critic of the plan.

Reed was employed as an expert in drafting the metropolitan plan, while Lashly for years has opposed city-county union. If the proposed enabling constitutional amendment is adopted in November, a metropolitan charter in harmony with the plan, already prepared, will be submitted at separate elections in the city and county early next year. Reed's statement in support of the plan, epitomized, was:

Community problems that cannot be handled well because of the separate governments will increase, and continuation of the present division of city and county is not feasible because the city cannot expand and there is no possibility of effective co-operation by the county.

County debt would be assumed by the greater city, but municipal debts would be retained by the cities. City-owned utilities could be taken over by Greater St. Louis on assumption of their debt, but the people could control this through the vote-on necessary bond issues. High water rates in the county cannot be relieved unless Charles E. Hughes be President.

In his letter of Nov. 15, 1909, he quotes the President as saying: "If I am defeated for the next nomination I think it will be by Hughes. And I don't think he will allow his name to be used unless he feels that I have no chance to win. I will have a chance to offer him a seat on the supreme bench. He will be inclined to accept and he will waver and he will then consult his wife and she, I think, will be the final influence which will cause him to decline it. SHADOWING FUNNY
BUT EXASPERATING
SENATOR NYE SAYSInvestigator of Mrs. McCormick's Detective Work on Vacation — Resume
Hearings Sept. 15.RECOGNIZED FOUR AGENTS IN THEATERTells How He Left Unfinished Meal in Cafe and Hungry Sleuth Was Obliged to Follow Him.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Senator Gerald P. Nye, whose committee has been inquiring into activities of detectives investigating the Senate investigation of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's senatorial primary fund in Illinois, left for Wittenburg, Wis., for a short vacation today. He will return to Chicago to continue the campaign fund investigation Sept. 15.

"I have been shadowed to exasperation," he said. At his side, assisting in his departure, were two of those shadows who have shadowed the shadowers for Mrs. McCormick while they shadowed the Senator. These were Baldwin and Daniel, the pair frequently mentioned in the hearing.

"Everywhere I look I see shadows," the Senator said. "Big shadows, little shadows, skinny shadows, fat shadows. They lurk in doorways, they follow me in taxicabs, they rub elbows with me in restaurants. The thing has really become ludicrous."

Four Shadows in Theater.
"Only last night I recognized at least four of my shadows near me at a theater. Yesterday I watched one of my shadows read the same newspaper for three hours."

"Another time I ordered a big meal. My shadow followed suit. I got up and hurried away, leaving the waiter untouched. You should have seen the expression on that fellow's face. He was obviously hungry and paused some time, torn between duty and pleasure, before he followed me to the cashier."

"Obnoxious as the whole business has been, it has not been without its humorous side, and now I am more amused than annoyed."

Senators Nye and Porter H. Dale of Vermont, the two committee members who have been hearing witnesses here the last two days, adjourned sessions late yesterday until Sept. 15, when the other committee members are expected to be here. At that time the committee expects to pursue its inquiry into Mrs. McCormick's use of detective agencies.

Committee Employ Testifies.
Senator Nye devoted his efforts yesterday largely to obtaining information concerning one "R. F. Bash," who was subpoenaed by the committee Friday at Fargo. He was served, but failed to appear, although he was registered at a Fargo hotel.

"In all probability this 'R. F. Bash,' whom the committee considers a very important witness, is the R. F. Bashford the Dunneberg Detective Agency has testified was in its employ and sent to Fargo with C. Clark Albers, to shadow the SOFIA, Sept. 4.—The fact that one of Col. Marinopolski's aids ended his life with him, when he shot himself after being arrested recently for espionage, became known today. The Adjutant, Capt. Alexi, immediately slashed the arteries of his wrists. A third officer was arrested as he tried to hang himself.

A police officer of high rank in Sofia has been arrested as well as another man charged with complicity in the espionage plot. Officials said Col. Thinks Hoover Criticism Unfair.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE practice of criticizing personalities which has been the wholesale business of newspaper and magazine writers of late, seems to be a game not worthy of men who live in our scientific age. To criticize Hoover for all the ills of the country is as unjust as to blame the drop of lava for the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius. Men who live under the regime of modern social sciences should know that no one personality can, even if he tried, control a country or a cause alone.

In a broader perspective, the critical analysis will see that the source of the difficulties is manifold and historic. A lethargy, peculiarly American, has allowed careless and unpenetrating analyses to develop and thrive. Meanwhile our news writers would blame a single personality!

There is, for instance, the lax methods of letting injustices escape punishment if the defendant has money. There is the powerful god of money who dominates the lives and souls of men, and who is just now being paid unusual homage by the Chicago gangsters. There is the universal American ethnocentrism which is blinder and more dangerous than that of the Kaiser's Germany. There is the illusion of freedom, complete and unadulterated, tantalizing the American people who have yet to learn that a complete freedom is only another type of captivity.

These and other practices and ideas constitute the religion of the people of the United States, and by this religion do they guide their lives. How, then, can one man be directly and solely responsible for the American state of affairs? How can one man revolutionize the American attitude? It will take the work of generations of social-minded thinkers to do the work. The individual and collective American mind needs to be stretched to see not petty flaws, but rather the broader trends and saner paths upon which single personalities are but specks of dust.

I am not a Hoover rooster. I should have had the same criticism to make of the editorial bombast which would have been Al Smith's laurels were he now in office.

A Job for the Firemen.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

DUE to the excessive hot weather and lack of rain, all sewers in St. Louis are filled with a fungus growth. The offensive odors which emanate from the sewers are the warning that disease germs are there.

Flushing the sewers with water will not clean the walls of the sewer inlets. They should be watered from powerful hoses of the fire department. This will give the overworked firemen some healthful exercise, and the public's health will not be jeopardized.

Our public health department is evidently on the inactive list or on a vacation tour. Is the health department established for personal or for public welfare? During the recent hot weather, the public health department could have been of real service if it had ordered and directed the sprinkling of streets. It would have relieved considerable suffering among the poor people who are not fortunate enough to be able to enjoy vacations in the cool breezes of our northern lake resorts. The public health departments of New York and Chicago know how to combat heat spells. All public departments of those cities actually function, under the direction of their Mayors. St. Louis has a Mayor, too, but only in name.

Crooked Politics in Madison County.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NO one in Madison County who stops to think doubts for a moment that the county government is rotten from top to bottom. The amazing thing about the situation is that the citizens up to this time have given every appearance of liking it that way.

But a vast dissatisfaction is stirring in the air. The man in the street, usually so inattentive, has begun to realize that the situation could never get so bad without connivance between officials and criminals.

As one irate citizen remarked the other day, "These officials have betrayed us. What is worse, these Benedict Arnolds are growing rich with hush money." The women, too, are beginning to resent the impertinence of the politicians, who, through their wives, extend their selfish manipulations into various organizations, even into semi-religious groups.

The outburst of civic virtue on the part of the machine in power to close some of the major gambling enterprises is regarded as a belated gesture. The machine chose one of its least offensive members for this pious performance. Now this machine is adaptable and resilient and can get along with either party or a combination of both.

The citizens of Madison County are getting their eyes open. In the November election they are going to vote for Jack Witherspoon, the independent candidate for Sheriff, and put an end to this government by gunmen, race track touts and sewer rats.

BUGLE.

THE FIGHT IN ILLINOIS.

The most important political battle of the year will be fought in Illinois. We are not unmindful of contests in several other states in whose results public opinion is anxiously concerned. In Nebraska, for instance, the defeat of Senator Norris would be a disheartening blow to the liberal sentiment of the country, but such an outcome is not expected. The country looks to the people of Nebraska, not as Republicans or Democrats, or partisans of any affiliation, but as American citizens to return Mr. Norris to the Senate as one of the great Americans of his day. That, we believe, is the national attitude, also, towards the candidacy of Senator Walsh of Montana. And as an initiate in the same high company of political courage and intellectual integrity, with his spurs yet to be won in the test of battling, public opinion places Dwight Morrow of New Jersey.

But in Illinois the issue is a question of public policy. There prohibition is on trial as it never has been before. The Democratic party, under the leadership of its senatorial candidate, former Senator James Hamilton Lewis, has turned its back on expediency and sophistry and declared unequivocally for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The Republican party has tried to evade the issue. Whether its senatorial candidate, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, dictated the party's tricky pronouncement, or merely assented to it, we are unable to say. In either event, her position is indefensible.

In the April primary she sought and obtained the nomination as an uncompromising dry. She appealed to and received the organized and decisive support of the Anti-Saloon League. Her April conviction faded away in August. The inescapable conclusion is that her dryness last spring was political strategy, just as her professed readiness now to abide by the referendum is political strategy, that neither then nor now was there a trace of sincerity, of genuine conviction, in her professions. That is the judgment which the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, speaking through its superintendent, George B. Safford, has pronounced upon Mrs. McCormick, and that is the judgment of informed, conscientious opinion everywhere.

It is rationally impossible for any citizen of Illinois to have any confidence whatever in the Republican party or its candidate for the Senate. Mrs. McCormick, a zealous dry a few months ago when political expediency urged that course, is now as zealously ready to be a wet—her price being the United States senatorship. Her party has underwritten her shabby opportunism.

Former Senator Lewis, always opposed to prohibition, is opposed to it now, and his conviction is not for sale at any price. He values his self-respect and his intellectual honor above any office, even the United States senatorship from Illinois. The Democratic party has formally and unreservedly endorsed his position.

That is the fight in Illinois. That is the alternative which prohibition submits to the people of a sovereign State—to choose between openly accepted responsibility and political spolia.

ANGRY VOICES IN THE REAR.

If the people behind the franchise racket in Chicago fall out among themselves and are therefore unable to avail themselves of all the juicy privileges voted them by the politicians, one can only conclude that some benevolent fairy watches over that amazing American city.

Of the 120 days in which the terms of this one-sided contract must be met, 60 days have already passed with the beneficiaries of the grant still bickering in the counting room. The politicians, of course, could just as well have made this period indeterminate also, but who ever guessed that all would not be true love between Mr. Insull and the rest when the city had been delivered to them hog-tied?

BUSINESS AND COMMODITY PRICES.

Reductions in commodity prices will not bring about a business revival. So says Calvin Coolidge. They will not make the rich buy more goods, because the rich will buy whether prices are high or low. They will not increase the purchases of the poor, for the poor will not have money with which to buy, even at lower prices. Prices, therefore, must be kept high. High prices will yield fat profits. Fat profits will bring prosperity.

This reasoning is entirely consistent with the Coolidgean social philosophy. Community well-being is but a by-product of pecuniary gain. Business must have a buyer. If prices are not yet low enough to enable the masses to buy, they must go still lower. A monetary system which is based upon strictly limited stocks of gold cannot support a permanently rising level of prices. A limited supply of money can accomplish an increasing volume of transactions only if prices fall. And sooner or later, fall they must.

Nor can we hope for business to revive until this adjustment takes place. When existing stocks of goods are more nearly exhausted, when low retail prices stimulate consumer demand, when low material prices and low rates of interest promise low costs and again hold out the hope of profits to the producer, then, and only then will prosperity return.

We regret, quite as much as does Mr. Coolidge, that our industry runs, as it does, by fits and starts. We hope that human intelligence may some day come to the point of stabilizing operations. But we fail to see that anything is to be accomplished by ignoring the basic realities of the situation and taking refuge in hypothetical abstractions.

Mexico uses the national lottery to support the charities of the republic, and we use the stock market to support the fallacy that stocks are worth more than they earn.

THE HISTORY LESSON.

The opening of another school year is a good time to speak of the work of the International Committee of Historical Science. Teachers of history who would have their classrooms institutions for spreading mutual respect among nations will do well to make the committee's spirit theirs as they take up the trail of the past with their pupils. The committee, composed of historians and history teachers, has begun to study history textbooks of different countries with the end in view that all shall be altered to agree with each other and the truth. The good which can come from the success of such a movement is inestimable. Without doubt much of the teaching in history classes has been detrimental to the peace of the world. Too much nationalism has been taught and too much emphasis placed on wars. Acquaintance with the history of other nations has been limited largely to those with which blood has been shed and at those points. History in its true sense gives honor where honor is due without regard to boundary lines. When its picture is of the whole, not of a small part, then history teaching is a virile force for international good-will.

DR. BUTLER'S GOOD ADVICE.

The really dangerous radical is the man who undertakes violently to repress all discussion of social change. The real conservative is the one who encourages the open expression of diverse opinions. For free discussion discharges resentment and leads to compromise, while violent repression begets martyrdom, bitterness and revolution. The seeming paradox finds its explanation in the fact that those who would uphold our institutions by force really encompass their destruction while those who counsel toleration effectually guarantee their preservation.

It was the tolerant spirit of an intelligent conservatism which permeated Nicholas Murray Butler's Labor day address on "The One and the Many." If our social system is to endure, said Dr. Butler, it will be because those who occupy positions of power so discharge their trust as to contribute to the well-being of their fellows. But should they "insist on treating as merely the wholly private possession of the one that which the authority and the consent of the many have permitted them to acquire, then the cause of communism would move a long way forward. The multi-millionaire of today and the directors of large corporate organizations hold the future of liberalism in their own hands. Each time that service is subordinated to gain communism is offered a helping hand."

Individual achievement in the field of business, Dr. Butler concluded, must be subjected to social control. Industry must be brought into complete subservience to human welfare if we wish to hold fast to that which is good in our social life.

While the National Civic Federation cries for a world economic boycott of Russia; while a high labor official demands the total exclusion of soviet products from our markets; while a congressional committee ponders the unorthodox political views of a handful of school children and promises to recommend the establishment of a special Federal police to spy upon the Reds; while American Legion posts and indignant Daughters of the Revolution pounce upon girls still in their teens and have them thrown in jail because their camp did not fly our flag; while police in our cities uphold the majesty of the law by cracking communists' skulls with their night sticks; while many misguided folk proceed, by violence and repression, to save the State, the president of Columbia University pours the oil of common sense upon the freshly troubled water of the new red hysteria.

CIVIC GREETINGS ALSO FAW DOWN.

The civic greeters of St. Louis and New York have also faw down and gone boom.

Our Jack Grosche, the Mayor's glad-hander, couldn't even crash the gate of a Pullman car to slap the Maharajah of Pithapuram on the back in a way that would make a visiting Asiatic come out of his trance and look at a country that is one. Jack had to be satisfied with a glimpse of the Indian ruler as his prophylactic majesty hurried through the car to take a shower.

In New York Maurice Bellonte, landing with Dieudonne Coste after a 37-hour flight from Paris, asked for whiskey and toast. We know this country is officially dry (and practically wet), but Bellonte didn't even get the toast.

We need a school of civic greeting in which people can learn how to greet.

TWO POETS AND THEIR HOMES.

The old homestead in Cummington, Mass., where William Cullen Bryant was born and to which he returned at the age of 73 to spend the last dozen summers of his life, has been acquired for the use and enjoyment of the public. There in the farming quiet of the Hampshire hills the small boy first began to observe the wonders of nature; there the retiring youth wrote "Thanatopsis"; there the serene old man finished his translation of the Iliad and the Odyssey. In Massachusetts such a place is properly preserved.

Now turn to Missouri—to St. Louis, in fact. During this week, the exact date is uncertain, occurred the eightieth anniversary of the birth of Eugene Field. The cottage in which he was born long ago gave way to the city's growth, but the three-story brick house in which he lived from babyhood to his sixth year, when his mother died, stands at 634 South Broadway. This dwelling, which knew the pater of his small, bare feet and his first mischievous pranks is rented as "residence property" to several families. Tenants come and go where lullabies were sung to the baby who was to grow up and write

Wynken, Blynken and Nod one night
Sailed off in a wooden shoe—
Sailed off on a river of crystal light
Into a sea of dew.
Massachusetts and Bryant, St. Louis and Eugene Field—a contrast in appreciation.

Anyway, after the hottest sun in 50 years some of us will have a new skin this fall.

TRANSPORTATION AND STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

A correspondent made in the Letter Column yesterday a point often made with respect to transportation and street improvements. That is, street car lines bear part of the cost of pavements where busses do not. Therefore, street cars are better suited to the municipal economy.

The weakness of this point is that the people prefer to ride on busses. It is so everywhere. They cannot be persuaded to give up the bus and go back to the street car because the latter help pay for pavements. In time, when busses shall have replaced street cars, perhaps altogether, the busses will have to bear some of the burden of maintaining city pavements. It is difficult to adjust that matter while transportation is in transition. The trackless trolley bus, which St. Louis has so far rejected, is an effort to avoid the burden usually assumed by street cars.

The first burden of which all such transportation must first be relieved is that of exploitation. Nothing that any of it pays or will pay to municipalities is or ever will be comparable to the tolls paid to profiteers.

Mrs. McCormick has become the chief advocate of the theory that government should belong to the highest bidder.

SHE SNOOPS TO CONQUER.

Rejecting Leaders of Courage

When citizens of ability run for office, the American electorate enthusiastically spurns them for candidates whose private convictions "will never be allowed to stand in the way of the people's will," the stock market first, politics second; the doctrine of the Seven Fat Years; muddling through crises.

Elmer Davis in Harper's Monthly Magazine.

G OVERNING the United States is a big job, it needs men of courage and far-sightedness. How can we bring men like that back into public life? Well, we are so tangled up in the machinery of political organization that we cannot do much all at once. We can only, as each opportunity arises, vote for men of courage and against pushovers, in the hope that eventually the politicians will realize that it is safe to nominate men who are not afraid to stand up.

Ten years ago the President of the United States had been defeated on a highly important issue by a party in the Senate; and on that conflict fought out within the framework of the government, the voters were about to pass judgment in a great and solemn referendum. The result of that referendum was a foregone conclusion, so it is a purely academic criticism that the Democrats ought to have renominated Wilson, whose record was their record; or, if illness disqualified him, ought to have nominated McAdoo who was in the dynastic succession, instead of picking a candidate who had had nothing to do with the Wilson administration.

In the Republican ought to have nominated Lodge. He was a man of courage, capacity, and shrewdness (whatever else you may think he was); he had to be, to win that fight over the treaty. Also he was the incarnation of the leading issue. In a country governed by the parliamentary system, it would have been a matter of course that Lodge should succeed Wilson. It had been shown that the President could not govern in the face of serious opposition in the Senate; it was then the Senate's turn to govern; to put into force its own policies after it had rejected the President's.

The Senate chose to govern, but from behind the curtains. Its own foreign policy was purely negative so it did not insist, as it might have done, on the appointment of a Secretary of State who would represent its views. To do that would have entailed responsibility, would have required initiative, the difficult mental labor of working out an affirmative policy. The Senate preferred to hold its veto over the Secretary of State; and for the presidency the dominant Senatorial group chose a man whose sole merit was that there was nothing against him—then.

Mr. Harding did the best he could, tried as well as he knew how to live up to his job; but he was a bramble and there was room for nobody but the Ohio Gang in his shadow. Who was to blame for the corruption of Harding's administration—Harding or the men of greater capacity who selected him rather than undertake the burdens of the presidency themselves? Or the voters, who the people of the United States, whose behavior for a hundred years had taught the politicians that they could safely nominate an incompetent man?

Well, we survived Harding; why worry? What difference does it make who is President? A good many people asked that question in the days when the only real interest of the American people was the rising stock market. As Mr. Bernard Fay put it, if we nominated candidates who meant something and fought elections on real issues, all sorts of bitterness might be stirred up; but when elections were only auctions won by the bidder who promised most prosperity, nobody need take them seriously. That was a plausible doctrine in the Seven Fat Years; I find, on reflection, that I have advocated it myself, in the pages of this magazine. But in the Year Two of the Era of the Abolition of Poverty it begins to seem that we might be a little more careful in choosing our rulers. The time may come when this nation will have to hunt the shade, and will not find much of it under a bramble.

But have we not survived every crisis? Yes, we have, so far. We won our independence and established a nation thanks to a generation of statesmen who were about the ablest lot of men that has ever served a nation in modern times. Some of those men were good politicians, but few of them could be elected to public office today. We muddled through to a draw in the War of 1812 because England was busy with Napoleon; we had no other foreign wars with serious adversaries till we got into trouble with the Germans. Then we proved the organizing ability for which America is renowned by being ready to fight a year and a half after war was declared. If we had got into that war single-handed, if we had not had allies to hold the enemy off till we got ready, the loss of a single fleet action would have ruined us.

We have recovered from panic after panic—because of our innate virtue and industry? Perhaps; but our immense natural resources helped; also the fact that any man who was dissatisfied at home could go West and homestead a quarter section. We have about come to the end of that happy time and perhaps our natural resources will not last forever. We have learned a good deal lately about cushioning the shock of panics; but the optimism who wrote the obituary of the "business cycle" were a little premature. We may have latent in the citizen body as much governmental ability as the great Revolutionary statesmen displayed; but it rarely tries to run for office, and when it does we enthusiastically reject it, and choose somebody who announces that his private convictions will never be allowed to stand in the way of the people's will.

Once, in a crisis we got a Lincoln. Providence? Maybe; it certainly was not popular foresight. Nobody knew that Lincoln was Lincoln when he was elected; and his subsequent conflicts with the leaders of his party suggest that if his quality had been appreciated he could never have got the nomination. We can hardly count on Providence to deal us a Lincoln off the bottom of the deck every time we need one.

LAWS AND IN-LAWS.

From The Posing Show.
A JUDGE declares that some laws are hard on unmarried men. But not half so hard as some in-laws are on married men.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.

IT'S a tremendous job that confronts Uncle Sam at the close of each Congress in letting the people of the nation know just what has been done in the way of new laws.

More and more bills are being passed each year. In the Seventieth Congress there required 467 pages alone to index new legislation. And some 2991 large pages were necessary to print the text of the new laws. The task of compiling and indexing the statutes at large passed by Congress rests on the shoulders of the historical division of the State Department—Tyler Dennett, one-time editor, lecturer in history and author.

The legal section of Dennett's office does the actual work. The historical adviser has the responsibility of seeing that the original law—bearing the signatures of the Speaker of the House, the President of the Senate and the President of the United States—is carefully preserved.

THESE original pieces of legislation, printed on parchment paper of 100 percent rag, are sent to the State Department immediately after the President affixes his signature.

The editor of the laws of Congress in the legal section of the historic adviser's office first gets four copies of each law from the Government Printing Office. Each of these copies is certified as a true copy of the original. Then one is sent to the Budget Bureau, another to the Treasury, the third to the General Accounting Office and the last to the public printer.

The public printer sends a proof of his certified copy back to the State Department, where it is read against the original. The corrected proof then is sent back to the public printer, who makes individual copies for general distribution.

In addition to these, a special proof with broad margins are run off for the State Department. In these margins each law is classified, summarized, annotated and catalogued.

THE proof with the marginal notes then is sent back to the public printer who sets them up in type. Then back to the State Department it comes for correction and careful checking.

When the corrected proof is returned to the printer, the legal section checks all marginal references to previous volumes. After that it goes once again to the public printer for plating.

The plating is checked with the second revised copy and the whole thing goes back to the printer for binding.

The Secretary of State must produce a bound volume of laws passed by each session at the end of that session. The Seventieth Congress' work required two volumes.

The signed originals are bound and placed in steel cabinets in a fireproof room at the State Department.

A Genuine Invention

ST. GUMBLE SITS UP! By Douglas Durkin. (Horace Liveright, New York City, 12.00.)
It must have been noted by many readers that the characteristic of our day depends little on what we do, but on what we think. A collection of incidents illustrating the group of people under consideration, the interest being essentially that of common sense, however brilliant the presentation may be. As in a colloquy, the incidents are naturally most vivid matters are naturally most vivid, and the duller catalogue of human doings may be made entertaining by the average by simply telling the story in a simple, unadorned, only appreciable "kick" in any contemporary novel is generated.

Having become accustomed to this state of affairs in the fiction, we are likely not to notice a relatively rare and genuine original invention among the novelists of our day. Such an invention as in no sense result in a great novel, though always there will be at least a touch of the quality of genius in it. The fundamental difference that between creation and imitation, between the poetic and the scientific.

In stories of the inventive type the familiar data of life are arranged in new patterns and new patterns generate an unaccustomed but in which important relations, previously unsuspected, appear and the most whimsically fanciful of the sort, "The Crook" by James Stephens, for instance, may actually result in a new, fully rounded realistic view of the common world of men and women than may the most meticulous accurate cataloging of human beings and their acts as they appear in the light of common sense.

It is not the livable "truth," but only the unorganized stuff of fact, that the unadvised sense in report—a statement which gives the meaning, purpose and the justification of any art, most especially including literature.

What distinguishes Mr. Durkin's "St. Gumble Sits Up," is the fact that it is a distinctly original invention, not by any means a "great" book, but a book that may be taken to mean; nor is it necessary that a book should be eligible to a vague classification in order to be both delightful and illuminating in an unusual way. The who the nature of the story is she something, quite remote from the realm of probability and at many points from even the possible.

Responsible whimsy seems to have left the tale in a mood of gentle humor not quite unadorned, the tears of things." Factual regarded, the story is preposterous.

FRISCO MAIN LINE IN PERFECT SHAPE, SAYS PRESIDENT

Defective Ties Found After Wreck Came From Rarely Used Siding, J. M. Kurn Declares.

INQUEST TESTIMONY CAUSES STATEMENT

Jury Decided Derailment Was "Unavoidable Accident" but Recommended Improvements.

The defective ties which were torn up and exposed by the wreck of the Frisco's "Texas Special" Sunday night when six persons were killed came from a rarely used siding which was plowed up with the main line tracks, President J. M. Kurn of the Frisco said today.

Answering witnesses who testified at yesterday's inquest that they found "rotten ties" on the ground after the wreck, Kurn said the ties and roadbed of the main line tracks were in "perfect condition." The siding was rarely used, he said, and was to be removed. A verdict of unavoidable accident and a recommendation that the Frisco improve its roadbed through Kirkwood, where the wreck occurred, was returned by the jury, after Frisco officers had attributed the wreck to stones placed on the ties by vandals and Chief of Police Schroeder of Kirkwood and others had criticized the ties. The jury spent 30 minutes at the wreck scene, inspecting ties and rails.

"We do not mean that the roadbed was in an unsatisfactory condition or that the Frisco was to blame," explained the jury foreman, Joseph Coulter, Kirkwood feed dealer. "We merely recommended that the roadbed be improved as a precautionary measure. We were unable to decide what caused the engine to leave the rails."

Prosecutor Continues Inquiry. Prosecuting Attorney Castlen of St. Louis County announced he would continue his investigation, questioning witnesses who were not available for the inquest, and might possibly submit his findings to the grand jury.

Frisco executives and special agents told of finding the point where the locomotive left the rails and described pieces of stone found near the spot. They identified five pieces of limestone, all of which had sharp, clean faces, indicating they had been broken recently. Chief of Police Andrew McDonnell of Webster Groves supported their theory, testifying that two hours after the wreck he had seen powdered rock on the rail and examined a piece of the rock.

Chief Schroeder, who previously had disputed the theory that the wreck was caused by vandals, injected the testimony about defective ties, asserting that between 50 and 60 per cent of the ties that had been torn up by the derailed train were rotted or in bad condition. He said he had pulled off pieces which crumbled easily between his fingers.

Afterwards, he told reporters that he had no intention of testifying about the ties until McDonnell "batted in" as a witness. Others Tell of Bad Ties. Archie Kerr, a Kirkwood policeman, said he observed "rotten ties" in the section torn up by the wreck, and Thomas Rose, a Maplewood policeman, testified he walked the ties east of the derailment and "kicked off chunks of wood" with his feet. Cross-examined, Rose said that in the 200-foot section where the ties were grooved by the derailed front wheels of the locomotive, there was no evidence that the ties had broken or had proved weak under the pressure.

Examining James A. Rutledge, roadmaster, Coroner O'Connell brought out that the Frisco, as an economy measure, had reduced the number of men engaged in track inspection 11 days before the wreck. Before A. J. 20, Rutledge said, a section foreman and two section hands inspected the three-mile section daily, but since Aug. 20, the foreman and one hand had made the daily inspection.

Kurn also told of an attempt to wreck a local passenger train early yesterday near Goodland, Ok., where the engine struck two ties and a quantity of rock that were piled on the track. The rock and ties were scattered the distance of four telegraph poles, but the train was not derailed. Two youths, one an Indian, were arrested and placed in jail at Hugo, Ok., as suspects.

P. W. Conley, Frisco superintendent of terminals and two inspectors of the Interstate Commerce Commission met today in a joint investigation of the wreck.

BERLIN, Sept. 4.—The Ministry of the Interior today sent to all cities and provinces a suggestion that German states a suggestion that they emulate Prussia's example by forbidding the sale of strong liquors next election day, Sept. 12. ## DEBATE ON PLAN FOR MERGER OF COUNTY AND CITY

The provision for bond issues for special improvement districts is new, but corresponds to the common special tax system and could be controlled through routine court procedure, there being no authority for unchecked issuance of bonds. No considerable increase in taxation would be possible without vote of the people. It would not be feasible to submit new charters for vote frequently because of the requirement for petitions.

A New Program of Vital Interest to Owners and Buyers of Fine Cars

Introducing brilliant new products and deeply lowered prices

Six months ago, Cadillac's international reputation as the foremost builder of fine motor cars was tremendously advanced by the announcement of the Cadillac V-16—immediately acclaimed the world's finest automobile... Now, out of an experience which produced this great car—and which has built and marketed more than 600,000 Cadillacs and La Salles—comes a new Cadillac and a new La Salle, both V-8's and (shortly to be announced) a new Cadillac V-type 12-cylinder car—sharing and benefiting in all that has contributed to the brilliant success of the V-16... The Cadillac Motor Car Company presents in the new Cadillac and La Salle, strikingly new elements of value in appearance, performance and comfort, but of even more timely interest, extremely low prices—the lowest prices in the last twelve years of Cadillac history.

THE NEW EIGHT-CYLINDER CADILLAC

PRICES RANGING FROM $2695 TO $3795
F.O.B. DETROIT

Prices lowered from $600 to $900

The New Eight-Cylinder CADILLAC

The new Cadillac Eight—embodying every sound, high principle established by Cadillac throughout the years—is one of the fruits of the greatest manufacturing program in all Cadillac history.

It surpasses all previous Cadillac Eights in performance and beauty—in the originality of its design, the costly richness of its interiors and the craftsmanship of its Fisher and Fleetwood bodies.

And still the prices are much lower. It has raised Cadillac standards of engineering and manufacture—embodying features developed by the Cadillac V-16, which confer upon it still greater steadiness, quiet, ease and riding restfulness.

All of this value has been created by the simple logic of Cadillac's great fine car demand—plus the unrivaled resources of General Motors.

Here, then, is a car that is bound to widen the circle of Cadillac ownership, for the sound economic reason that it represents the greatest price and quality-value available today.

THE NEW V-TYPE 12-CYLINDER CADILLAC

Cadillac will shortly announce a highly important addition to the Cadillac line—rounding it out into complete coverage of the fine car field... After a year of demonstration side by side with the V-16, the new V-type 12-cylinder Cadillac is almost ready for public presentation. It will be a superb car of 140-143-inch wheelbase, ranging in price from $3795 to $4995, f. o. b. Detroit... The Cadillac V-12 will be announced and delivered to the public at an early date.

THE NEW EIGHT-CYLINDER La SALLE

PRICES RANGING FROM $2195 TO $3245
F.O.B. DETROIT

Prices lowered from $245 to $750

The New Eight-Cylinder LA SALLE

The new La Salle is a dramatic demonstration of what a great industrial institution can do when it drives steadily year after year toward higher quality and at the same time toward lower price through constantly increasing ownership.

La Salle benefits again by its association with Cadillac—and especially by the greatly expanded Cadillac manufacturing program.

Nothing less than this, and La Salle's share in the powerful economic influences exerted by General Motors with its wealth of scientific saving resources could possibly accomplish such a saving for the public in the fine car field.

The brilliant new La Salle offers a new and more powerful V-type eight-cylinder motor, greater beauty of bodies, designed by Fisher and Fleetwood, greater richness of upholstery, and interior appointments.

By the simple logic of building better and better each year—by sharing the benefits of its companion cars, the Cadillac V-8, the Cadillac V-16 and the Cadillac V-12—La Salle puts into the hands of a new and vastly larger public a car of fine calibre never before within their reach.

Mayor's reply to the argument against the proposal, epitomized, was: "The amendment is not a question of powers of metropolitan government, but of the distribution of powers between the city and county."

People of the present city would not be deprived of municipal government, except in return for a more efficient government.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

There would be nothing to prevent the metropolis from buying public utilities at any price.

The amendment is a one-man document in draftsmanship and three-man as to policies, but people behind it had funds to pay 10 cents a name for the initiative petition.

Proponents of the plan have $100,000 to go to in Missouri to "put it over," and claim the amendment may carry in the county; it may, as there is a lack of opposition funds. City and county people did not get together in drafting the plan. There would be no popular vote on special district bonds. The means of submitting the merger is through unofficial channels rather than the familiar Board of Freeholders method, and the 1924 merger amendment should not be repealed. There is no limitation on the submission of more charters if the first one fails.

MRS. MCCORMICK IGNORES DR. ISSUE IN EAST ST. LOUIS

It was 8:20 before any of the group of speakers reached the hall.

Starting her talk with the statement that "nobody here knows how old I am," (Who's Who gives her age as 50) Mrs. McCormick said that recently she was introduced as the "oldest woman politician."

She then told the story about her father, saying that her interest in politics dated from many, many years ago, when she drove her father to a ward political meeting in Cleveland.

"My father was afraid of nothing in the world except a horse," she said, "and he took me along to drive. At the meeting I soon tired of the long Republican speeches and went to sleep on a pile of coats on a table."

Pledges Faithful Service.

"When the meeting was over, the owner of the coats one by one quietly drew them from under me and I slept on. My father, not having a coat, didn't see me and forgot about me. He started out, but when he reached the buggy, remembered that he didn't know how to drive. Then he remembered about me and returned to the little school house. The janitor by that time had locked the door and I was locked inside. Father climbed in a window and awakened me."

"That, you will realize, was very, very many years ago."

"I appreciate the privilege of standing the Republican ticket. The only pledge I have to make is one of fidelity and faithful service."

That was Mrs. McCormick's speech. Nothing in it about prohibition, the real campaign issue in Illinois, where the Democratic candidate for Senator and the Democratic platform are outspokenly in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and where the Republican platform straddles the issue.

Nor did she mention the employment by her of private detectives to "shadow" Senator Nye, chairman of the committee which is investigating her primary campaign expenditures, and to probe Nye's private and official career.

She had said in formal statements and newspaper interviews that she employed the detectives in retaliation for what she believed was unwarranted espionage of her by committee agents.

Others Attack Nye.

She left to Frank L. Smith, who was denied a seat in the Senate in 1927 because of the use of excessive campaign funds, and C. J. Doyle, chairman of the Republican State Committee of Illinois, the discussion of the Senate Committee and the denunciation of Nye.

Smith, who this year is a nominee for Congress at-Large, introduced his remarks by a reference to his own rejection by the Senate.

"You behold," he said, "a man who has more certificates for a seat in the United States Senate and has less seats than anybody ever elected to the Senate."

"There is nothing in my career that I am ashamed of, nothing that unfits me for public office."

"I discovered that the Spanish Inquisition was not obsolete. When I was elected the Senator from Missouri (former Senator Reed) headed the committee. It was not an investigation, it was a persecution in my case, and it is now a persecution in the case of Mr. McCormick."

Doyle delivered a vigorous attack on Senator Nye.

Assistant Democrats.

"I honor a man who adheres to the Democratic party because of principle," Doyle said, "just as I honor a Republican who is a Republican because of principle. But we in recent years have found in our party a type of men who are willing to use the high record of the Republican party to advance themselves, willing to use it to attract support, but when elected to office become 'Assistant Democrats' at the Capitol. I believe in that character of Republicans who stand by the party at all times. There is no place in the Republican party for a man who calls himself a Republican, and at the same time does everything he can to destroy the party."

"It is not a mere coincidence that Senator Nye arrived in Chicago to conduct this inquiry just at the time the Republican party of Illinois was starting out on this organization campaign. The Senator is serving as an assistant to our Democratic friends, the enemy."

Attorney-General Oscar Carlstrom of Illinois spoke for nearly 30 minutes, reviewing the history of the Republican party. "The progress and prosperity of the country," he said, "was due to the Republican party. The election of President Wilson in 1912 threatened prosperity," he continued.

"The War Saved America."

"Within the first year, after the passage of the Underwood tariff bill, the country was in a state of setting in," he said. "All that saved America was the war. That created a false prosperity."

The present business depression he attributed to the "debacle" of the stock market, which was unparallelled in history, and which shook the confidence of the country.

He mentioned there was considerable unemployment, and that conditions were largely due to the drought, but assured his audience that "a Republican President knew just where to put his finger," calling a conference of industrialists to remedy the unemployment problem, and a conference of Governors to handle the drought. ## DEPUTIES GUARDING PIPE LINE

WORKERS GET $2-A-DAY PAY

25 Special Officers in St. Charles County were Promised $5, but Law Fixes Lower Amount.

Twenty-five special Deputy Sheriffs appointed by Sheriff Grothe of St. Charles County to guard non-union pipeline workers following an attack on some of them Aug. 14, were indignant today when they received checks for $15 days' work at $2 a day.

The Oklahoma Contracting Co.,
which is constructing the line,
line, agreed to pay Deputy Sheriffs $5 a day when the executives conferred with Sheriff Grothe and Circuit Judge Woolfolk. It was discovered later, however, that the Missouri law would not permit such a practice and that the county might pay no more than $2 a day.

In the meantime the deputies had been put to work guarding the 200 workmen, assisted by 75 guards armed with ax handles, employed by the contracting company at 60 cents an hour.

About 25 Deputy Sheriffs in Madison County, Illinois, are getting 60 cents an hour from the contracting company, since there is no law there prohibiting it.

Grothe withdrew his deputies today, since he thinks there is no danger of another attack. The workers were assaulted after they had refused to organize and pay the leaders of the movement a high membership fee.

100 VETERANS GET PTOMAIN

By the Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, Sept. 4.—More than 100 members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars were treated by physicians on their return from a trip to Annapolis last night for illness in some instances diagnosed as ptomaine poisoning. Several were under treatment today. The veterans are holding their twenty-ninth annual encampment here.

At the State capital, where several thousand of the veterans and members of the Women's Auxiliary visited the Naval Academy, the party had a picnic lunch on the academy grounds. The sufferers were unanimous in blaming a combination of crabs and ice cream.
Senior Vice Commander Paul C.
Wolman was among those treated.

WORLD CHURCH CONFERENCE ON UNEMPLOYMENT PLANNED

Meetings Will Be Held Next Year,
Possibly in London, Basel or Geneva.

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 4.—
The Ecumenical Council in session here today decided to hold a conference on unemployment in which the churches of the world would be invited to participate, not later than next year.

The decision was made on request of British and American churches. The program proposes national studies of labor problems.
Efforts will be made to find a permanent remedy for unemployment.
London, Basel and Geneva were suggested as possible places for the proposed meeting.

committee, after its return from Glacier National Park," Nye said.
The surprise witness of the day was Lloyd E. Bemis, Chicago accountant, employed by the committee.

Bemis testified that one of Mrs.
McCormick's agents had endeavored to obtain an interview with him and later telephoned to "tell me how I might avoid being shadowed."

He said this man, who introduced himself as "Dennis," asked him if such information, with the knowledge that his every move was watched because he was an employee of the Nye Committee, would not "be worth at least $10."

Bemis identified the operative as Kenneth Wilson, who preceded him on the stand.

$25 for Information.
Wilson testified that, after Danenberg had been detained by Mrs.
McCormick to shadow Nye, he was approached by a David Stevenson Groh, who suggested that "they might be able to do business."

"Groh introduced himself to me under an alias," Wilson said. "He met me in a restaurant and arranged to pay me $25 for information collected in this case. He also offered me a salary of $40 a week, to obtain office files for him, and give him inside information about the operation of our office, how it could be entered in off-hours and who was there during holidays. I took the proposition to Mr. Danenberg and gave him the money.
We supplied Groh with information of no value and he seemed satisfied. We found that he was gathering it for our opponents."

Wilson later returned to the stand to deny he had made Bemis any proposition, or had had any dealings with him.

Other witnesses were W. C. Danenberg, who previously testified that Mrs. McCormick paid him $1500 down to shadow Nye following the robbery of her files and the discovery of a strange woman in the closet of her Drake Hotel apartment.

THE WAY

A WOMAN

What Marriage Costs

ANOTHER irreducible minimum wage has just been set up. Judge W. O. Dunlevy, who handles most of the divorce cases in Indianapolis, Ind., announces that financial troubles constitute the chief cause of divorce and lays down the law that every young man should be making at least $25 a week before he gets married.

The Governor of the State, the head of the sociology department at Butler University, a banker and a minister agree with Judge Dunlevy's estimate.

Yet figures compiled by the Indiana State Compensation Bureau show that the average weekly wage in Indiana is only $24.64.

In New York, where living expenses are higher, the Home Making Bureau of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs suggests $60 a week as the sum on which a young couple can set up housekeeping comfortably. What is the average young man's wage in that city we don't know, but it's certainly well below $60 a week.

Yet young men continue to marry, both in Indiana and in New York, and most of the marriages do not end in divorce caused by financial trouble—or by any other kind of trouble.

We have reached the conclusion that hard and fast stipulations as to the specific salary on which marriage can be financed are—if you will pardon the colloquialism—the bunk. If ever there was a case altered by circumstances—and by character—it is this case of youthful matrimony. What young persons need to marry on is, first of all, the deep, unshakable joyous love that is ready to make sacrifices with a smile; next, vigorous health and ambition on both sides, finally, money sense, rather than a minimum wage arbitrarily fixed by a sociologist.

There certainly are many young couples who enjoy life hugely on much less than $60 a week. The point, it seems to us, is not so much the size of the husband's salary as the size of what he and his bride want for it. They can figure that out before the wedding day—they can and they should.

How much rent they will pay, how much they will spend on clothes and lunches and personal expenses, how much their food will cost—these are items which they can determine approximately by investigation, by comparison with their respective tastes, by estimate of their respective powers of self-denial.

Rents for example, are the most variable thing; we know of a woman who paid $90 a month for a room and a bath in Greenwich Village; on the other hand we know of two young men who found a five-room apartment only a few blocks away at $10 a month. If a young couple is not fussy about the neighborhood—or the stairs; bargain apartments are still to be discovered for the hunting.

As regards the housekeeping budget, we know three business girls who chip in $2 a week for the "pussy" out of which they buy all the food for their breakfasts and dinners. Naturally, they don't have many chops and steaks, but they eat balanced nourishing, sufficiently abundant, easily prepared meals. The young couple willing to set a simple table shrewd in buying at chain store rates and pushing carts, can eat economically in New York.

ANOTHER factor to be considered in financing a modern marriage is that it can often be based on two salaries instead of one if the girl is willing to keep on with her job at least for a time. Certainly two persons who live apart on $20 a week apiece can marry and keep house together on $40! When we said "keep house together," we meant exactly that it isn't fair for any bride to have to do all the housekeeping and to work downtown into the bargain. If she helps her young husband by working outside the home he must help her by working inside it.

Yes, it will be hard work for both—but not too hard if they have love, health, ambition and the money sense which inspired a fifty-fifty newly married pair of our acquaintance to ask that their wedding presents be checks, and that a beloved aunt lend them an electrical egg boiler or toaster in place of her contemplated silver vase which they had neither room to store nor time to polish. In that last stipulation, it seems to us is a flash-light of the difference between yesterday's young married couple and today's!

In short, it's sense, not cents, which will count for more in the budget on which the right sort of youngsters get married.

Graham Nut Bread.

Two cups unsifted graham flour, 1 cup white flour, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 3 cups sour milk, 1 ½ teaspoons soda, 1 cup chopped English walnuts. Sift dry ingredients and then add sour milk and nuts. Pour into a buttered pan and let stand for 15 minutes. Then bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes. A delightful bread that is also very economical.

ALIMONY

CHAPTER XIII.

"I WON'T be getting a vacation until fall," Stephen told Charlotte one evening shortly after Janet Winchester's musicale. "That's too bad," she answered absently. "I was just going to speak to you about going away this summer—it's late in July already and the heat is unappealing."

He braced himself for the usual argument, but she went on swiftly:

"Janet Winchester is going abroad. She's offered Helene and me the house. There will be very little expense . . . the servants go on as usual . . . there's the garden and the dairy. It will just be a matter of butcher bills, divided between us—and tips, when we leave."

Stephen said, dubiously:

"Nice of her. But I don't know that I care to have you accept so much."

"Oh, nonsense. She's only too glad to have the house lived in. She'd have to pay some one, if we didn't take it on."

"I suppose so," Stephen answered, dully. His head ached; he'd had rather a run in with Ketcham. Things had gone wrong all around, at the office. Eve Harkness hadn't been there either. They'd phoned she was ill. He'd left the office a little early and sent her flowers. He wondered uneasily if she were really very ill—if she were being looked after properly. Perhaps she had gone to her mother; in which case, he reflected ruefully, his flowers wouldn't do her much good.

He looked, heavy-eyed, at Charlotte, who was yawning her way through a novel at the far end of the couch. Why couldn't he tell her flatly . . . I don't want you taking this house with the Carter woman . . . I don't like your acquaintance . . . I don't like your accepting so much from rich, carelessly generous people like Miss Winchester. You can't pay it back . . . it's bad for you to take all the time.

But what was the use? If he said it she would twist his words, would find perfectly unintentional meanings, insults even, in them. She would storm, cry—make some sort of a scene. And things had been peaceful enough lately.

So he said nothing, which was, if not an actual permission, at least a tacit acceptance of the plans Charlotte asked, casually:

"You'll come up for week-ends, of course?"

He hesitated. Go to a strange woman's house . . . with Helene Carter in evidence, coaching Charlotte, sympathizing with her, and ironic at his expense. She was always giving him dirty digs, he reflected, and he had no comeback. Not that he gave a damn. "I don't know," he answered.

"I'll be busy. Ketcham is going on his vacation soon. I'll probably work Saturday afternoons."

Charlotte nodded. Helene said, suddenly:

"Mind, you, Charlotte, I don't

"Oh, in that case," Charlotte answered, almost too quickly, "it would hardly be worth your while."

Now, he thought, was the time to tell her about his innocent excursions with Eve during her absence.

He opened his mouth to tell her. And closed it. He had that uncomfortable sensation a person feels when the words are formed in the mind and the tongue remains shackled. If he told her, he argued silently, at the time when she was being amiable and pleasant it might reverse her mood, set her to carping. No, perhaps he'd better not tell her—now.

He did not.

Charlotte, watching him, was perfectly aware of the mental struggle. And she had the happy feminine quality of interpreting a sign in the fashion most pleasing to herself. It was a good sign; she thought and smiled. Little that Stephen was making such hard work of saying simply, "While you were away I took Miss Harkness to dinner at that French place—what's the name?—Jean-Louis?"

She hoped he would not tell; that his male instinct for secrecy would conquer. She was not disappointed. It did.

When next she saw Helene she told her with the minute descriptions, interpolations, analytical discussions, common to the wifely narration of the smallest marital incident.

"He was dumfounded when I spoke of her," she summed up.

"He just looked at me . . . Oh, not suspiciously, exactly, but as if he were trying to find out what was back of it all. It was really funny. Then, of course, he wondered if it were safe to tell me about going out with the girl. He started to think—and then all of a sudden he looked perfectly blank and began reading his paper again."

"The less he tells you the more you'll know—or can think you know," Helene remarked cryptically.

"I don't know," he answered.

Charlotte nodded.

Helene said, suddenly:

"Mind, you, Charlotte, I don't

says Dr. H. H. Bunzell

Ph.D., University of Chicago

"What can a dentifrice really do?" Dr. Bunzell makes public his findings after years of study on the subject in a great eastern university—and he reveals some important truths.

Dr. Bunzell says:

"A dentifrice whose sole object is to clean the teeth, such as Colgate's, and which is made primarily from the most effective cleansing agents, is to be preferred to one which relies on ingredients put in to affect other objects such as the attempts to correct the acidity of the saliva."

"No relationship can be found between the conditions of the teeth and the degree of acidity found in the saliva."

A DENTIFRICE, Dr. H. H. Bunzell believes, is made with one object—and only one—to clean the teeth. And so he approves Colgate's. Colgate's—with its penetrating foam; Colgate's—with its power of reaching the hidden surfaces where food lodges and is most apt to cause decay.

Ordinary toothpastes—sluggish, pasty dentifrices—are not active enough.

Tests show Colgate's superiority. And dentists encourage its use. For 50 years they have been advising this one toothpaste. More people use it today than any other.

And, despite its high quality, this superior toothpaste sells at only 25 cents the tube. Your teeth need, your teeth deserve, this daily care.

Agreeing with Dr. Bunzell are such eminent authorities as Dr. Harder Chambliss, Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Shirley W. Wyman, Commissioner of Health, New York City, and scores of others equally well known who have been retained to make analytical tests and to render their expert opinions.

Talks to PARENTS

Alice Judson Beale

Under strain. A year after Betty's father was found dead, her mother found her daughter to handle. Until then, there had been no special problem. Betty was always a trouble with her play-acting around as her mother, "with a chip on her shoulder." She showed unpleasantness of jealousy, too, becoming antagonistic to her small, resentful of his demands, very presence even. There were other times when she was like her old self, she was warm and frank with her mother as she had been before. She would lend them her most treasured and share freely the privileges that came with her mother's position. And unpleasant as she was to her little brother at home, she always defended him as he was wholly responsible for her mother's death. She was of course, never a child's motives but it is likely that in this instance, her contradictory behavior was due to the strain of new adjustment made necessary by her death. She had received a good deal of love and attention from her mother. When he died there was a mother to love her and she had to be shared with another who naturally could not give her the same amount of love. Her jealousy of him is understandable when we think of it as a result of a less warm and loving mother she had hitherto known. Her mother's death was a great emotional difficulty for her which in turn reacted upon her conduct.

DURING THE WORLD WAR, IT WAS DANGEROUS TO KEEP A LIGHT GOING TOO LONG IN THE TRENCHES... THE FIRST FACE ILLUMINATED ATTRACTED THE ENEMY SNIPER'S ATTENTION... THE SECOND FACE ENABLED HIM TO GET HIS RIFLE SIGHTED, AND WHEN THE THIRD FACE WAS ILLUMINATED HE FIRED.

"WE"—LINDY DID NOT INAUGURATE A NEW CUSTOM WHEN HE REFERRED TO HIS FLYING ADVENTURE IN THE TERM OF "WE." HE MERELY REVIVED AN OLD ONE... KING JOHN OF ENGLAND STARTED IT IN 1190, WHEN REFERRING TO HIMSELF IN STATE PAPERS AS "WE"... GERMAN AND FRENCH SOVEREIGNS SOON FOLLOWED THE STYLE... WHEN EDITORS BEGAN TO SAY "WE" IT WAS NOT KNOWN.

Care of the Hair.

HAIR, like the enamel of the teeth and the nails, is a special form of the skin covering. But while the latter two are now accorded a fair degree of care the hair frequently is neglected. There are many scalp conditions that suffer from too much and the wrong kind of care. It is not uncommon to find a history of years of neglect followed, when the first bald spot appears, by an aggressive and intensive abuse of the scalp through excessive washing and the application of too strong alcoholic tonic preparations. The normal scalp and hair—that is, those neither too dry nor yet too oily—require shampooing not more frequently than once a week, nor less frequently than once a month. Shampoos of unknown composition are not to be trusted, and for washing the hair few things are better than castile soap and warm water. When the hair is worn long, daily brushing is advisable. The brush should not, however, be too stiff nor too fine, and should not irritate the scalp. Hats should not be tight-fitting, and should not be allowed to interfere with the blood circulation of the scalp. They should also allow for circulation of air. Whether or not dandruff directly causes the loss of hair is a disputed question but it is a contributing cause and is in agreement. Those suffering from dandruff should avoid irritating lotions. Since not infrequently the loss of hair is associated with deep-seated disturbances in the body, it is wise to submit to careful physical examination. Hair is said to have roots, but these must not be conceived of as in the nature of tree roots. No remedy can be applied to the hair shaft and cause the hair to grow.

Strange, isn't it, that so many of these old ladies should suddenly be called upon to serve another generation. Those who have any of the things that only a few years ago were tolerably viewed as naively fashioned and put away in the attic, are bringing them forth again and giving them a place, although in many an instance they seem incongruous among ultra-modern things. Friendly ghosts they are to the oldest, to the younger generation they have no significance, while to the youthful they must seem like little left-over old ladies set among a gathering of debutantes.

Lacquer Cane and Scarf

LESLIE DOUGLASS, artist and explorer, carries a red lacquer slender cane which just matches her red chiffon scarf. Though having been in the wilds of Indo-China for over a year, Mrs. Douglas looks like London or Paris in her smart street attire when she visits the capital. With the red accessories she wears a thin gray suit.

Placement of Posies

THE placement is as important as the posy in artificial flowers. Square cut necklines for afternoon are relieved with a small bunch of flowers in the center front. Outstanding military collars maintain rigidity by means of a crisp gardenia in the center back.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner.

The Prize.

JOHN and Peggy wanted to see more of the wonders accomplished by the Wright Brothers, and the Little Black Clock, still keeping the time turned backward, took the children over to France. "People have been making fun of them and their machine," the Little Black Clock said. "Why do people make fun of such great things?" John asked. "Well, you know, when something is very new and very strange and seemingly impossible, it is hard to believe in it," the Little Black Clock answered. "You're used to seeing planes now, but you know it was hard for people to believe that men could travel in machines right through the air."

"Yes, I guess that's so," John answered. And now they saw one of these brothers—Wilbur Wright—with his aeroplane and he was flying it on and on and on he flew. Half an hour passed by and another half hour and yet another half hour, and now Wilbur Wright was landing. He had been successful. He had succeeded in what he had set out to do, and the children saw that he was given a prize a little while after this. "Well, if every one deserved a prize, he did," John said. "But what has happened to his brother?" "We haven't time now to see what he is doing," the Little Black Clock said, "but he is making successful flights back in his own country." "Wouldn't you think they would be just as proud as you could be?" John asked. "They're famous," the Little Black Clock returned. "For their work in making aeroplanes really fly, and for their quiet modesty about everything that they accomplished." "Oh, I wish I could build a finer aeroplane or a finer something than anyone else," said John. "I'd try to be modest too, but it would be great to do something great, wouldn't it, Little Black Clock?" And the Little Black Clock agreed.
